Farm Relief and Tariff Press for Congress Action

Short Session Beginning Monday Complicated by New Demands of Campaign Promises—Republican Opinion Divided on Leaving Marketing Measure for Extra Session.

Washington, Dec. 1 (AP).—Returning to the Capitol to pick up where they left off last May, members of the Seventieth Congress today found their calendar of unfinished and routine business for the concluding short session beginning on Monday complicated by new demands of campaign promises.

Even before the arriving congressional hosts could get into their desks today to bring out old bills neglected in the press of the last session, conferences were being called to take up the fate of legislative promises born in the intervening national campaign, principally tariff revision and farm relief.

When the opening session of the house is concluded, Monday afternoon, Republican members of the ways and means committee will meet to discuss the much-discussed question of whether tariff revision is to be undertaken and, if so, when.

Unfinished work presents a real problem in the Senate, which starts in almost as soon as the gavel falls with the resumption of debate on the Swing-Johnson boulder canyon dam bill.

The Senate also has before it the administration's naval construction measure and the new Kellogg anti-war treaty.

While its leaders and committees are studying over the prospects for farm relief and tariff revision, the House will plunge into its annual task of appropriating the money to run the government during the approaching fiscal year.

This is one of the chief tasks of the short session of the retiring Congress and leaders intend to make it the real business of the three-months' term.

Farm Relief and Tariff Paramount.

However, the ever-present problem of farm relief and the new one of tariff revision is holding the attention of the pre-session discussions along with a friendly contest in the Senate as to who is going to succeed Vice President-elect Curtis as Republican leader of that body.

Opinion of the Republican leaders, who have the upper hand in both the house and the senate, has been divided as to whether farm relief in the form of a marketing measure should be pressed at the short session or left to an extra session which Mr. Hoover has promised if the problem is not disposed of at the short session.

Senator McNary has drafted a new farm marketing bill and will ask immediate action.

Senators Borah, Idaho, and Brookhart, Iowa, want an extra session for farm relief and want relief revision as well as a marketing bill taken up then.

Clearing Atmosphere for Tariff.

So far as the tariff revision is concerned the action yesterday of Chairman Hawley of the house ways and means committee, in calling Republicans of the committee together on Monday for a discussion of this question may go a long way in clearing the atmosphere.

Hawley said that the meeting would determine whether hearings would be held as the first step toward writing a new bill. He thought a general revision bill could be put through as quickly as an emergency measure designed to aid agriculture.

If there is to be an extra session—and only the far-away President-elect who comes into office on March 4 can decide that—opinion is divided as to when it should be held.

Speaker Longworth of the house and Senator Watson of Indiana, a prospective senate leader, say next fall. Representative Tilson of Connecticut, the Republican leader of the house, and Senator Smoot of Utah, the chairman of the powerful senate finance committee, say right away, that is, next spring, when the new congress comes into office.

SMITH CLUB OF WASHINGTON HAS JUST BEGUN TO FIGHT.

Washington, Dec. 1 (AP).—The Al Smith Democratic Club of Washington, like John Paul Jones, has "just begun to fight."

The group has passed a resolution to "maintain its origin as an active, energetic body to foster and animate a nation-wide movement to bring about the nomination and election of Alfred E. Smith in 1932."

A preamble to the resolution extols the defeated Democratic standard bearer and denounces the activities of the Klan and Anti-Saloon League. No mention is made of the New York Governor's announcement that he never again expected to run for public office.

PLACING CAISSON OF NEW BRIDGE IN POSITION

The east caisson of the new Poughkeepsie bridge will be in permanent position by December 8, according to an announcement made by Walter G. Cheever, superintendent of Blakeslee-Rollins, Inc., bridge contractors. The caisson, now about 10 feet from grade, was sunk 10 feet in the last six days, say officials, and concrete will be poured as soon as it reaches its permanent bottom.

BRITISH ROYALTY ANXIOUSLY AWAITING KING'S RECOVERY

Christmas Club Members Get Checks for $350,000

Five Kingston Banks Mail Checks to Members of Clubs for Big Sum—Money Has Been Saved During the Year and Will Be Put to Many Useful Purposes.

Christmas Club checks, to the amount of about $350,000 either are or will be in the hands of members today or Monday. The several banking institutions which conduct Christmas Clubs have placed in the mails over 8,500 checks which vary in amounts from a few dollars to some very substantial amounts.

The Kingston Trust Company heads the list both in number of members and in amount which is paid out. From the main bank at Main and Fair streets and from the Central Broadway Branch some 4,500 checks amounting to a total of $178,000 were placed in the mail for distribution today.

Second on the list is the First National Bank of Rondout with 1,300 members and about $50,000 in amount. These checks were placed in the mail today for distribution to members.

The National Ulster County Bank and Trust Company today mailed out about 1,300 checks totaling some $45,000.

The State of New York National Bank placed in the mails today 800 checks which total $42,000. These checks, while they were placed in the mail today, were dated for Monday and will probably not be received until that time by the members.

Over 600 members of the Rondout National will receive a total of over $35,000. These checks were also mailed out today.

New Clubs are Being Formed.

All of the banks which conduct Christmas Clubs find the idea of Christmas savings by this method is increasing each year and already new clubs are being formed at the banks.

By small savings each week throughout the year many people receive very substantial amounts just prior to the holiday season. Considerable of this money is returned to the banks in savings deposits but a great portion of the money released is used in Christmas shopping. Annually the merchants of the city feel the benefits of this method of providing funds for the Christmas shopping and the money placed in the hands of the club members each year materially helps business through the profusion of funds for early Christmas shopping.

This money will be used for all good purposes—buying clothing, paying the coal bill, taxes, interest, life-insurance premiums and for Christmas shopping. A great many families enjoy a merry Christmas, with gifts aplenty, and everything in abundance, because they take advantage of this method of systematically accumulating a Christmas fund by regular weekly deposits in the Christmas Club.

Sunday Movies Here Tomorrow

For the first time in the history of Kingston the local theatres will be open and Sunday movies will be shown on the screen Sunday. Under the provisions of an ordinance recently adopted by the common council it is now lawful to show movies on Sunday after 2 o'clock in the afternoon. The theatres that have announced they will be open that day are the Kingston Theatre, the Broadway Theatre and the Orpheum Theatre.

Eight Carried to Safety.

Severe Drought Broken.

Hazelton, Pa., Dec. 1 (AP).—A severe drought which prevailed for some weeks through northeastern Pennsylvania was partially broken today following copious rains during the night.

Bad Boy Mayor Leaves Jail

Salem, Mass., Dec. 1 (AP).—Andrew J. (Bossy) Gillis, Newburyport's bad boy mayor, ended a two-months' term in the Essex county jail this morning.

His departure was in the nature of a gala event. Several hundred persons gathered in the jail yard to see the mayor leave. At least two score were newspapermen and photographers and "Bossy" spent the first half hour of his freedom having his picture taken and giving interviews.

The gist of what he told reporters was that he would "make it hot" for his political enemies in Newburyport.

DR. WOOLSEY SENTENCED TO LIFE IMPRISONMENT

Elizabeth, N. J., Dec. 1 (AP).—Dr. Arthur F. Woolsey, dentist, was sentenced to life imprisonment in the state prison at Trenton by Supreme Court Justice Samuel Kalisch today for killing his wife, Margaret, in their home in Roselle, on August 1 last.

Woolsey retracted a former plea of not guilty and entered ones of nolle contendere to three indictments charging the murder of his wife; a son, seven and a half years old, and a daughter three and a half years old. The court sentenced him on the indictment charging the slaying of Mrs. Woolsey. Sentence on the other two counts was suspended.

Hoover Party Aboard Cleveland

Cruiser Conveys Good Will Party Ashore for Visit to Guayaquil Ecuador—Callao, Peru, Is Next Port of Call.

U. S. S. Cleveland, off Guayaquil, Ecuador, Dec. 1 (AP).—President-elect Hoover and his party were transferred from the U. S. S. Maryland to the cruiser Cleveland this morning and the Cleveland immediately began her eight-hour run across the roadstead and up the river to Guayaquil, the principal port of Ecuador.

As the Maryland could not go close enough to the coast to send the party ashore in small boats, the Cleveland had been summoned from Central American waters so that Hoover might land on Ecuadorian soil, his first stopping place in South America on his good will tour.

The Maryland arrived at her Ecuadorean anchorage at five o'clock and the transfer of the Hoover party to the Cleveland was completed safely at 6:20 a. m., the cruiser immediately starting on her run to Guayaquil.

The Cleveland was due in Guayaquil about 2 p. m. and everything was in readiness to take the distinguished guest for a tour of the town, including a visit to Guayas University.

Mr. Hoover and members of his party were to be guests of the Ecuadorian president at dinner. Mrs. Hoover was to return to the Cleveland for the night but others of the party intended to remain ashore at a hotel.

Set Sail for Peru Sunday.

Sunday the president-elect and his party are to board the Cleveland for the trip back to the Maryland which will set sail late in the day for Callao, Peru, the next port of call. From Callao the president-elect will go to Lima, the capital city, to be greeted and entertained by President Leguia.

The Maryland is expected to stop at some Chilean port between Arica and Valparaiso, so that Mr. Hoover may greet Foreign Minister Palaccio and other Bolivian officials as he can not visit Bolivia.

After the gentle ministrations of King Neptune's court on crossing the equator many of the Hoover party are somewhat stiff and sore. All, however, will keep vivid memories of the experience. The Maryland's equatorial veterans outdid themselves in their initiation, knowing that Mr. Hoover would be a spectator.

Associates of the president-elect say he indicated that never in his fourteen previous passages of the equator had he seen better "Neptuning."

Among those initiated by the mythical sea king was Allan Hoover, son of the president-elect, who was required to march with his neck and wrists in stocks. Nine other members of the Hoover party, a half dozen newspaper correspondents, and 750 officers and sailors of the Maryland were also initiated.

FATALLY INJURED IN LIGHTING GAS HEATER

Herkimer, N. Y., Dec. 1 (AP).—An architect, Wilbur Sinter, whose men were working in the home of a former state senator, Frank W. Christman, was injured fatally today when he lighted a heater from which gas was escaping. He died an hour after the accident.

Watchman Kills Window Smasher.

Philadelphia, Dec. 1 (AP).—One of five men who attempted to smash the window of a jewelry store was shot and instantly killed by Benjamin Brownfein, a watchman, early today. The man was partially identified as John Stefonweis, 19.

Slight Rise in King George's Temperature

Although He Passed a Fair Night and His General Condition Remains the Same—Palace Officials Do Not Regard Bulletin as Alarming.

London, Dec. 1 (AP).—A slight rise in King George's feverish condition was announced in the medical bulletin issued at Buckingham Palace this morning.

The nation had been hoping that His Majesty would make a steady, although necessarily slow, progress toward recovery. The knowledge that his fever was higher, if only slightly, gave a tinge of uneasiness to public feeling.

The king was stated to have passed a fairly comfortable night, however, and his doctors announced that there was no change in his general condition, in which some improvement was announced yesterday.

Lord Dawson of Penn and Sir Stanley Hewett, the king's physicians, were at the palace nearly two hours this morning, leaving shortly after their bulletin had been posted. This read as follows:

"In spite of His Majesty having passed a fair night, there has been a slight rise in temperature since yesterday. The general condition remains unchanged."

Because of yesterday's more favorable reports on His Majesty's condition, there was a falling off in the number of visitors through the palace gates during the night and a comparatively small gathering was present when the doctor's bulletin was hung on the railings this morning.

The early crowd was succeeded, however, by a steady stream of people anxious for the latest news.

It was indicated after this morning's bulletin that its less satisfactory tone was not entirely unexpected by the King's doctors. At the palace it was authoritatively stated that the King's condition bore out the statement in yesterday's bulletin that the possibility of exacerbation was not yet over and so long as this exists the physicians are prepaerd for a little ebb and flow in the illness. The rise in temperature today was one of the possibilities for which they have been prepared.

Palace officials indicated that they did not regard this morning's bulletin as alarming, since the King's general condition remained unchanged.

Drunken Drivers Pay $200 Fines

This morning in police court, Ole Olsen of Olive Bridge, who was arrested recently for operating an automobile while intoxicated, entered a plea of guilty and was fined $200 by Judge Shufeldt. Olsen paid his fine.

Dr. Elvin Chipp of Clinton avenue entered a plea of guilty to operating an automobile while intoxicated on Broadway recently, and was fined $200 by Judge Shufeldt. Dr. Chipp paid his fine.

INCREASE IN AMOUNT OF APPLES IN STORAGE

Chicago, Dec. 1 (AP).—Teacher may expect to receive many a red-cheeked appie pretty soon.

The government bureau of agriculture economists announces that apple storage houses throughout the United States have on hand 2,870,000 barrels, 12,422,000 boxes and 4,918,000 bushel baskets of apples.

Combined holdings are 44 per cent greater than a year ago, and 30 per cent above the 5-year average.

Uptown Stores To Open Evenings For One Week

Before Christmas Instead of Two Weeks as In the Past—Stores Will Remain Open Evenings Until 10 o'clock Beginning Monday, December 17—Matter of Christmas Lighting Will Be Definitely Settled at Meeting Next Thursday.

Stores in the uptown section of the city will remain open evenings for one week before Christmas instead of two weeks as in the past. Beginning Monday, December 17, the stores will remain open evenings until 10 o'clock thus giving all an opportunity to shop.

This action was taken Friday afternoon at a meeting of the executive committee of the Uptown Merchants' Association after the matter had been thoroughly discussed from all view-points. By placing all efforts in one solid week of selling this will relieve the female help of the stores of a long and hard two weeks of night working as has been customary in the past. Instead of over-tired clerks to wait on customers the customers will be greeted with competent clerks who have not been overworked by long nerve racking hours behind the counter. It is expected this will give the shopping public better service and create more of a Christmas spirit among both employes and customers.

Members Present.

In attendance at the meeting were representatives of the following stores: Kresge's, Newberry's, Woolworth's, Grant's, L. B. Van Wagenen's, Rose & Gorman, The Wonderly Company, S. Bernstein & Company and S. Cohen's Sons. As these stores employ the bulk of the female help in the uptown section the executive committee in session with the representatives of these stores were of the opinion that the decision was representative and all members of the association are in hearty accord with the one week night opening.

The keeping of the stores open for one week prior to Christmas is a precedent for Kingston merchants and shows the hearty cooperation of the merchants as a group.

Open Until 10 O'Clock.

Commencing on Monday, December 17, the stores will remain open until 10 o'clock. This will give everyone ample opportunity to shop evenings where it is impossible to shop during the day time. All of the stores will remain open until 10 o'clock instead of various hours as in the past when some closed at 9, others at 9:30, and frequently customers were disappointed through the different closing times. By the arrangement which has been made the public will know just when all of the stores will close.

By keeping open for but one week prior to Christmas the merchants will have to obtain special permission for but one evening, December 17, since the labor law permits all stores to remain open evenings beyond regular closing time for 6 days prior to Christmas. The Uptown Merchants' Association will request permission from the Labor Department at Albany for this one additional day and it is hoped that the permission will be granted.

Discuss Lighting Next Thursday.

The matter of Christmas lighting will be definitely settled at a meeting next Thursday evening at Von Berg's Advance Restaurant. At that time it is anticipated all members of the association will be present and the final details arranged. Clark & Watrous, who have the lighting in charge, are progressing with the work in a most satisfatory manner and it is expected that everything will be in readiness by December 10. Already 500 evergreen trees have arrived and will be erected on the business streets.

It has been also determined that three large "Merry Christmas" electric lighting signs will be placed at various vantage points. The positions suggested are one at North Front and Crown streets, one at John and Wall streets, and the third at the head of Albany avenue.

Xmas Lighting Contest Will Be Held in Kingston

Contest Sponsored as Formerly by Electric Service League of Kingston—Four Prizes Offered—No Commercial Entrants This Year—Adds to Gayety of Christmas Season.

A local residential Christmas lighting contest will be held in the city of Kingston similar to that of last year. Four prizes will be offered to entrants contributing the most interesting and spectacular displays.

Because of the fact that the several Business Men's Associations of Kingston are sponsoring a contest of their own, there will be no commercial entrants in the Electric League contest.

The contest is being sponsored by the Electric Service League of Kingston and, as last year, its progress will be followed closely in The Kingston Freeman.

The Outdoor Christmas Lighting Contests will be conducted this year on a nation-wide scale under the auspices of the Society for Electrical Development, according to an announcement made by the National Outdoor Christmas Lighting Committee composed of representatives from various branches of the industry. This announcement marks national recognition of previous successes with this type of contest experienced locally by individual leagues and local groups in many parts of the country.

It will be remembered that last Christmas time the Hudson Valley Electrical League and several of the newspapers sponsored such an outdoor Christmas lighting activity locally in the cities of Newburgh, Kingston, Poughkeepsie and Beacon. These local contests were a huge success, and the community interest in the activity itself was far deeper than a mere competition for the prize awards. And it is the last year's success which has created a demand for a more highly developed and more inclusive series of contests this year.

Contests Developed Civic Pride.

Reports from nearby neighborhoods, as well as communities throughout the country where such holiday lighting contests have been held, indicate that these contests have developed civic pride and satisfaction in the progressive spirit of the community as reflected in its holiday attire. The friendly spirit of neighborly rivalry tends to produce variety in attractive displays, and nearly every home shows its Christmas spirit in some form of lighting effect.

The decoration of homes on the outside as well as on the inside is consequently fast becoming as important a manifestation of the Christmas spirit as the Christmas tree and the holly wreath itself.

Adds to Gayety of Season.

The gayety of the holiday season is no longer shut within the walls of the home. Everywhere it is becoming the custom to twine strings of tiny, twinkling, colorful light about the porches and eaves of the houses, to festoon them from the hedges and trees on the lawns, to nestle them in wreaths at the windows. Where once only darkness and blackness greeted home-coming footsteps, now these gay little lights cause hearts to beat higher with the pleasant consciousness that the season of friendliness, of hospitality and good cheer is present.

No longer are the packages under our arms and bulking from pockets the only external evidence that Christmas is here. Everyone can see it in every lighted doorway, every decorated window, every radiant tree and shrub.

It is pleasant to come home to a festively lighted house. It is pleasant to go calling at one. It is pleasant just to pass by one. One feels instinctively a warm friendliness towards the inmates of such a dwelling and wishes them well.

Lighting Easily Accomplished.

Effective exterior lighting is not only captivating, but it is easily accomplished. Little lights with their colored bulbs come already strung and ready to be hung wherever fancy directs. They are sturdy little devices and can be tucked away and used again, year after year. There are types that burn steadily and others that flash on and off, and as the bulbs are very low wattage, they consume little electric current. Once they have been placed where they will be most effective, it only remains to connect a series of them to an electric outlet. If this convenience outlet is placed on the outside of the house—a very fortunate situation—there needs to be no lead-in wire from the outside of the house to the inside. If there is no such convenience outlet handy, the connecting wire can be run through a window, stuffing up the crack with paper or cloth. The low cost of such an exterior convenience outlet, however, and its use not only for this special occasion, but for porch lamps in the summer time, makes its installation one of permanent economy and comfort.

Smith Marriage Annulled.

Poughkeepsie, N. Y., Dec. 1 (AP).—The marriage of William W. Smith, Second, grandson and namesake of one of the founders of the Smith Brothers' firm of cough drop manufacturers, to Olive Lancaster Smith, today was annulled here by Supreme Court Justice Morschauser. Incurable insanity was given as the major reason for the action. The couple were married September 24, 1927.

Boy Scouts May Get Scholarships

Scores of scholarships for colleges and secondary schools are being awarded to Boy Scouts yearly. These scholarships are made possible by the generosity and far-sightedness of individuals, groups of citizens and by institutions of learning, who realize the character building and educational value of the Scouting program.

For example; the Harmon Foundation Scholarship agreement provides 52 scholarships annually to Eagle Scouts who have demonstrated leadership ability and given conspicuous and unselfish service of some constructive nature, denoting character, perseverance or self-sacrifice.

A Scout has just been awarded the Bronze Medal for heroism of the Carnegie Hero Fund Commission, which carries with it a scholarship award of $1,600.

Another has just been awarded the "Yankee Ingenuity Scholarship" given annually by the Worcester Polytechnic Institute. In order to receive this award a boy must present evidence of doing some special work that displays "Yankee Ingenuity".

A Scout has lately been awarded a scholarship which will provide all his expenses for four years at the New York Military Academy, Cornwall-on-the-Hudson, the cash value of which is $1,800 a year.

A four-year scholarship to the New York State College of Forestry at Syracuse University has been awarded to another Scout.

A Scout enters the University of Pennsylvania as the first recipient of the Boy Scout scholarship that is offered annually by the university.

Martin Cantine of Saugerties, who has always been a generous friend of Scouting, is the chairman of the Boy Scout Financial Campaign which is to take place from December 3 to December 7.

There will be a dinner for all workers of the campaign next Monday, December 3, at 6:30 p. m. in the Advance Restaurant. Dr. George, deputy chief Scout executive of this country, will be present.

MUSICIAN CALLS JAZZ A FOUNTAIN OF YOUTH

Berlin, Dec. 1 (AP).—Jack Hylton of London, known as the "jazz king of Europe," has discovered the secret of eternal youth. Arriving in Berlin with his jazz orchestra for an extended stay, he said:

"There is nothing that keeps a fellow so eternally young as playing in a jazz band. Jazz is an expression of youth, of joy, of bubbling enthusiasm. Anybody who plays it cannot help but keep young.

"More than that, our men can for the most part play six, seven, or eight instruments. All sorts of different muscles of the body are involved in the process of playing them, so that a man keeps in good athletic training if he joins a jazz band."

TOURIST GOOD WILL IS FRENCH ELECTION ISSUE.

Nice, France, Dec. 1 (AP).—Nice is in the midst of the bitterest political battle in its history and the unsuspecting American and British tourist is largely responsible.

Mayor Mari ran for a position on the departmental assembly and was defeated by the party advocating "clean up Nice and make the tourists our friends". He resigned the post of mayor and is being opposed for re-election by millionaire leader of the opposition. The movement grew out of the fact that Nice has been losing in popularity as a tourist center and tradesmen have taken fright at the gloomy outlook.

POETIC PILOT GETS FIRST AIRLANE PASS

Berlin, Dec. 1 (AP).—Peter Supf, the first German poet to specialize on aeronautic verse, will have an airplane as his Pegasus for the remainder of his life.

In recognition of his services in popularizing aviation through the medium of poetry Supf has been presented by the German "Lufthansa" with a general pass, good for life and valid for all planes of the German Airways Corporation both in Germany and abroad. He is the first and only person in Germany to hold a life airplane pass.

Supf is a former war aviator. "My first poem came to me as I was hovering in my plane, with one hand on the machine gun, high above the battlefields of the Somme in 1916," Supf said. "I then conceived the idea of putting the marvel of human flying into verse.

"In the course of the war I was shot down. The bullet which struck me entered my thigh and passed out again through my shoulder blade. My plane showed 28 holes."

Only slowly Supf recovered from his injuries, but as he lay in the hospital he composed further verse with flying as his theme. By 1919 a whole volume of aviation poems had come from his pen, published under the title "Songs from the Air."

Later Supf was induced by the Lufthansa to compile an anthology of aviation. It begins with the Etena song, written by an Assyrian poet 3,000 B. C. and ends with "The Last Line" by a French aviation captain who was shot down during the World War.

Supf has also published a volume of short essays and novelettes under the caption "The World Without Horizon." This prose work may be described as an expression of Supf's aeronautical philosophy of life.

PARIS LEADS THE WORLD IN SPEED OF TRAFFIC

Paris, Dec. 1 (AP).—Twelve miles an hour through dense traffic is the boasted speed of Paris cars. Paris travels faster than New York or London, say the French experts, regardless of the city's reputation for street congestion that makes it quicker to walk than to ride.

Paris has given herself this reputation for speed by timing trips through the centers of the three capitals.

Show Hospitality To the Coolidges

Christmas Shower Gifts of Quail, Ham, Fruit Cake, Apples and Turkey on Chief Executive and His Wife.

Swannanoa Club, Near Waynesboro, Va., Dec. 1 (AP)—That southern hospitality which almost everyone is heard about is being enjoyed by President and Mrs. Coolidge at their country residence here in the Blue Ridge Mountains.

To make up for the fact the President does not wish to accept any invitations, the people hereabouts are dropping at Swannanoa and leaving all sorts of gifts of food famous down here in the Old Dominion.

First to come were a dozen quail shipped on an estate neighboring Swannanoa, and an invitation that the President would choose to [illegible] his gun, he would be sure to find some for himself.

Then came a big, juicy Virginia ham cooked by an old mammy, Mary Ernie, who is full of pride because famous persons like Marshal Foch and General Pershing have tasted her cooking. The ham that Mary turned out was covered with brown sugar, rubbed well into the tender meat and stuck full of cloves.

A fruit cake, described as "old fashioned in every way," is resting on a shelf of Swannanoa's kitchen and in the basement are six boxes of apples grown in the neighborhood. A thirty-pound turkey the President had for Thanksgiving dinner was sent by friends in Charlottesville. Both the President and Mrs. Coolidge are seeking rest and few people have seen them since they returned to the club after a day in Charlottesville Thursday. A similar day of rest was the order for today. Tomorrow Mr. and Mrs. Coolidge may attend church nearby and leave later for Washington.

Edmund Burke, assistant pastor. Responses to the Mass were sung by the parish chancel choir. Thomas Dolan sang a Latin hymn at the offertory and at the conclusion of the Mass, "Face to Face". A profusion of beautiful flowers surrounded the casket and there were many spiritual bouquets in the form of Mass cards. The funeral was largely attended. Interment was in St. Mary's Cemetery, where Father Burke pronounced the final absolution. Four sons of the deceased acted as bearers.

The funeral of Mrs. Harry P. Lauren, who died on Wednesday, was held Friday evening from the late residence, No. 20 West Pierpont street. The members of Kingston Chapter, No. 155, O. E. S., gathered at the house at 7 o'clock that evening to conduct the Eastern Star funeral services which were very impressive. The Star services were conducted by M. Edgar Powley, a past matron of Kingston Chapter, and Miss Gertrude Smith, matron of the chapter, assisted by the officers of the chapter. The services that followed the Eastern Star services were in charge of the Rev. Dr. Charles G. Ellis, pastor of the Rondout Presbyterian Church, of which Mrs. Lauren had long been an active and devoted member. Dr. Ellis paid a high tribute to the Christain character of the deceased and of her faithful services both in the church and its organizations and also as the junior past matron of Kingston Chapter. The floral offerings were both profuse and beautiful, testifying to the high esteem in which she was held. Interment took place today at Hobart.

The funeral of Richard Wenzel was held from his late home, No. 354 Broadway, Friday morning at 9 o'clock and 9:30 at St. Peter's Church where a requiem Mass was celebrated for the repose of his soul by the Rev. John P. Neumann. The services were very largely attended by his many relatives and friends, also large delegations from St. Peter's Holy Name Society, Kingston Council K. of C., the members of K. of C. Fourth Degree and the Kingston Post American Legion. Wednesday a large number of Legionnaires met at the home for the Legion services and Thursday evening a large number from the K. of C. under the direction of Grand Knight Feeney came to recite the rosary for the repose of his soul, also a large delegation from St. Peter's Holy Name Society led by the Rev. J. P. Neumann. The remains, which reposed in an antique silver metalic casket, were completely surrounded by the beautiful floral tributes, testifying to the high esteem in which he was held by all who knew him. The bearers were Edward F. Moran, John McGuire, Daniel Hoffman, Edward Sanford, William and Chester Kaleel, members of the K. of C. Members of the Fourth Degree acted as a body guard led by Faithful Navigator William J. Dwyer. The interment was in the family plot in St. Peter's cemetery where the final absolution was given by the Rev. Father Neumann and as the remains were lowered into a slate vault, a firing squad composed of Morton Finch, Edward Hillis, Reginald DeChene, Howard Finch, Ralph Fredenburgh, Kenneth Dooley, led by Andrew Murphy and members of Kingston Post American Legion, fired three volleys over the grave, and taps were sounded by Bugler Frank Sass.

Yerry-Walker.

Immanuel Lutheran Church was the scene of a charming Thanksgiving wedding Thursday when Hilda Walker, daughter of Mrs. Andrew Walker of 133 Highland avenue was married to George Yerry, Jr., of Kingston, N. Y. The ceremony performed by the Rev. E. L. Witte was marked by a keynote of beautiful simplicity. To the strains of Mendelssohn's wedding march the three bridesmaids in gossamer-like dresses of pink tulle over pink taffeta and carrying flat bouquets of orchid chrysanthemums came slowly down the aisle accompanied by the three ushers. The bridesmaids were Mrs. William Husta of Hurley, the Misses Ethel Schaeffer of Kingston and Irene Walker of Brooklyn, a cousin of the bride. The ushers were Ray and Arnold Yerry, brothers of the groom, and Willard Sahloff, a cousin of the bride. The bridesmaids were followed by the bride's sister, Gertrude, as maid of honor, attired in a lovely gown of rose tulle over rose crepe de chine. She carried beautiful yellow chrysanthemums. The said of honor was followed by the bride, a vision of misty loveliness in a white lace gown trimmed with white velvet and a lace capped tulle veil of utter loveliness. The best man was Joseph Yerry of Poughkeepsie. During the ceremony an effective note was accomplished by having the church lights turned out leaving only the altar candles burning. Their soft, mellow light fell full on the pastor and bride and groom and lent an enchanting air of mysticism to the group around the altar. The beautiful strains of "I Love You Truly," were softly and beautifully played during the ring ceremony. After the wedding the guests left the church for Golden Rule Inn where a delightful reception was held. After the reception the bride and groom left for New York and Atlantic City where they will spend their honeymoon. They were the recipients of many beautiful gifts signifying in themselves the love and best wishes of a host of loving relatives and friends.

Dyspepsia often is mistaken for love. The symptoms are very much the same.

A MILLION GRAVES.

Great Britain has not forgotten her war dead, although they are such a multitude and more than half of them must forever be nameless. The Imperial War Graves Commission, which after ten years has nearly finished its work, reports registering 1,081,952 British World War dead, of which only 582,783 have been identified. Of the remaining dead recorded as "missing", 172,213 have been buried as "unknown", including the 56,000 who fell beyond the Menin Gate at Ypres.

There are, we read, 2,000 British war grave cemeteries in France alone and 500 in Belgium. "Travelers see the memorials on the stark lonesome coast at Gallipoli, as they pass through the narrow sea between Europe and Asia. The slope overlooking Jerusalem from the Mount of Olives side is white with the sepulchres of those who died in Palestine. Wherever British soldiers were serving their country, their comrades still lie, some in great companies, some in little groups and some in solitary graves, all the way round the earth in places as remote as Muscat, where one lies buried, the Society Islands, the Fijis, Bechuanaland and the Belgian Congo. Even for those who 'have no other grave than the sea', there are 'sea marks' or 'leading marks' or shore beacons bearing their names and guiding the living. Not one has been neglected."

In a great war cemetery King George is reported to have said that there could be no more potent advocates of peace on earth through the years to come than such massed multitudes of silent witnesses to war's desolation, and that they will serve "to draw all peoples together in sanity and self-control." Alas that great nations should so readily forget such mute witnesses, as well as sanity and self-control, as soon as their pride has been affronted or they think their commercial interests are threatened.

THE SPEED OF LIGHT.

The universe gets bigger and bigger—or, rather, the series of universes continue to expand in proportion to the construction of wider-reaching telescopes. A generation ago the world gasped with amazement on being assured that it required three years for the light of a certain fixed star (or sun) to reach the earth traveling at the rate of 186,000 miles per second. Not very long ago it was announced that it required ten million years for light to reach us from a very distant fixed star or sun. Now Prof. Shapely of the Harvard Observatory says he has ascertained that the sun of our own solar system is 47,000 light-years distant from the "center" of the prodigious celestial structure, and, with light traveling at the accepted rates, this means that the earth is more than 250,000,000,000,000,000 miles from the said "center", or that the light which streamed out from Sagittarius long before our supposed monkey ancestor became a man has just reached the earth. As for Prof. Hubble of the Mount Wilson Observatory, his gorgeous idea is that our universe is but one of countless numbers, "each containing millions of suns, the light from some of which can reach us only after traveling 200,000,000 years.

What is the ordinary man that he should presume to wonder whether all this celestial arithmetic is so absolutely correct that it can never be revised? Yet sometimes, here and there, one does wonder whether in the higher and rarer atmospheres inter-stellar light may not travel faster than it can travel in the relatively gross atmosphere encircling our earth, wherein alone the speed of light has been measured.

In 1926 American factories produced a little less than 7,200 aircraft, valued at $8,870,000, which was a record. Last year they produced 2,000 aircraft, valued at $14,250,000. This year that record will be nearly doubled. The industry is expanding more rapidly here than anywhere else in the world. We got off to a late start, but are making up for it.

Few Americans yet realize the extent of flying in this country. We have 260 mail planes flying over 22,000 miles a day. There are nearly 6,000 miles of air route lighted, and that mileage will be doubled in the coming year. Nearly 160 cities are now connected by air routes, serving trading areas that contain two-thirds of our population.

The Supreme Court upholds the [illegible] which requires such secret organizations as the Ku Klux Klan to file their constitutions, oaths and membership lists. The enforcement of this law will divest the Klan of not a little of its mystery, on which, together with its high-sounding and comical "entitlements", it has depended for its hold on undeveloped minds.

The reported discovery by astronomers of the "center of the universe" some trillions of miles away in space will not shake the conviction of the average politician that the real center is at Washington, D. C., or of a heavy percentage of plain citizens that it is inside their own skins.

If Mr. Tunney did get into a social register through his wife, it is certain that his wife got on the front page through Mr. Tunney, who therefore may have the satisfied feeling that reflected glory is equally shared.

THAT BODY OF YOURS

BY

James W. Barton, M. D.

(Registered in accordance with the Copyright Act.)

OUR WORK.

You and I have ourselves and our families to help and support, and that perhaps fills our minds and our hours to a very considerable extent. However, as you have this life to live anyway, why not get all the enjoyment, the satisfaction, the "kick", as our young friends call it, that may be yours.

Dr. Glenn Frank, President of the University of Wisconsin, tells us that as we all have to work, there are four necessary things to our work that make or will give it that completeness that is worth while.

First, the work should not be so easy that you are not learning something and overcoming something every day. This makes it a sort of daily "adventure".

Second, enough variety that it taxes your brain but is not too difficult for mind or body.

Third, a sense that the job you are doing means something to the world; is helping the world's progress.

Fourth, to like and be liked by your fellow workers.

Your natural question is what has the above to do with that body of yours.

Well just take all four of Dr. Frank's suggestions and see how that body of yours enters into every one of them.

First how much "adventure" is in your spirit in the morning, if you have overeaten the night before or slept badly? Why you don't even want to go to work.

Second, there must be a certain amount of routine in all our work, and how "deadly" that becomes when that body of yours is below par from indigestion, constipation, an abscessed tooth, headache, sore feet, or other conditions. There is no energy, mental alertness, left to use your brain on a new problem.

Third, the thought that you are or should be doing or creating something may not even enter your head, the way you are feeling.

Fourth, if you are feeling below par, you can readily guess how small things will annoy you, and you may be more or less of a "crab" to those about you with whom you work.

And so as you and I go about the task of living and try to keep in mind Dr. Frank's four suggestions, our first thought should be about our bodies, about our health, because health gives or takes away from us our ability to measure up to the above suggestions, and thus get from life all the wonderful gifts she has to bestow.

Flashes of Life Sketched in Brief

(By The Associated Press)

New York—Mr. and Mrs. Gene Tunney were aboard ship for Thanksgiving and evidently will be at sea Christmas. Last Thursday they visited the new motor liner Vulcania at Pola, on the Adriatic. They will come home on its maiden voyage, starting December 19. It is due December 30.

San Francisco—Mr. and Mrs. Fidel La Barba while enroute to Australia will study how best to invest Fidel's earnings in the ring. They took several volumes of finance with them.

New York—Customs authorities who at first ruled that a bust of Richard Wagner was a manufacture of metal have changed their minds and called it art, thereby making it unnecessary for $16 duty to be paid by Carl Hein, director of the New York College of Music. It is the gift of a nephew. Hein says Wagner sat for the bust; that it is valued at $5,000 and has received prize awards.

Trebizond, Turkey—From the isolated uplands has come to this Black Sea town one Mehmed, who while displaying a birth certificate indicating that he is four years old, strokes his beard, pulls his moustache and announces that he is in search of a wife. He is two feet three inches tall. The Red Crescent Society, corresponding to the Red Cross, is exhibiting "the youngest man in the world at a piaster a peek and two piasters for a pull at his beard."

Montclair, N. J. — Miss Grace Thurston Emery has been married to Kirby Heath Fisk on the wedding anniversary and birthday of her grandmother and the wedding anniversary of her mother and two aunts.

RUSSIA FAVORS U. S. INDUSTRIAL METHODS

Moscow, Dec. 1 (AP).—The steady growth of Soviet-American economic relations has been summarized in a series of articles published by Economic Life.

It is pointed out that several American engineering firms and a number of individual engineers are acting as consulting agents and participating in new Soviet enterprises. One American mining firm has been working for two years in the Don basin. Two other firms have cooperated in an extensive survey of the southern railroads and ports.

A Chicago company signed a contract with the central metal administration of the supreme council of national economy providing for an examination of factories and workshops. This concern is organizing in Leningrad a technical branch for permanent consultation on manufacturing projects.

Several Americans are participating as advisers in the construction of blast furnaces and the manufacture of colored metals. A number of American firms are cooperating in the development of Soviet enterprises for the making of machinery.

Important electrical developments are being pushed forward with the aid of the General Electric Company. Other American groups are cooperating in the manufacture of large-scale refrigerating plants, paper and celluloid enterprises, glass making and oil refining. Approximately 300 Soviet specialists have been sent to the United States in the past three years for the study of American industry.

PACIFIC FLIGHT PLAN FAILS TO WIN FU[illegible]

Tokyo, Dec. 1 (AP).—The failure of the ambitious plans of the Imperial Aviation Society for a Japanese trans-Pacific flight has been publicly acknowledged in the resignation of all the officers and directors of the society except one.

This was Lieutenant-General Gaishi Nagoaka, one of the directors, who from the start had opposed the flight plans and hence was not called on to accept responsibility for the failure. Baron Yoshiro Sakatani, former minister of finance, chairman of the society, was first to offer his resignation.

BOOTLEGGERS OF COFFEE ARE ACTIVE IN BRAZ[illegible]

Sao Paulo, Dec. 1 (AP).—The state of Sao Paulo is losing revenue through the activities of coffee bootleggers, according to a statement by the government here. Officials declare that an organized gang is working nightly transporting coffee grown in this state into the state of Parana and the export tax is thus lost to the treasury.

These smugglers are said to be perfectly organized and have been working on a large scale, taking an important part of the crop in the Chavantes region over the state border.

Realization

FROM the time Alice was a [illegible] she had WANTED to give her a musical education; but felt that they could not afford it. Mrs. Shelly just happened to glance through the musical instrument for sale column of The Freeman the other day and there she found an opportunity to fulfill their desires. Another family leaving the city offered to sell their piano at a tremendous discount and Mrs. Shelly realized that here was a piano they COULD afford. Now she also realizes the money saving opportunities these little want ads afford.

Social Life in National Capital

Washington, Dec. 1.—The capital had a glimpse of Spanish royalty this week in the person of H. R. H. Infante Don Alfonso, H. R. H. Infanta Dona Beatriz and their son, the Infante Don Alvaro, of Spain.

The latter came here a few hours ahead of their arrival just to be presented to the President and Mrs. Coolidge at the White House.

They returned for a dinner at the Spanish Embassy. While they were there the President and Mrs. Coolidge had the important role of dining [illegible] at the Spanish embassy. The Secretary of State and Mrs. Kellogg were there also, out for the evening, the company was made up of [illegible] diplomats.

The reception at the embassy was attended by more than a hundred guests, many of them diplomats. Among those who came from New York were General and Mrs. [illegible] Vanderbilt. There was a display of splendid evening dress, the women and the diplomats wore their uniforms.

Prince Adolphus of Sweden will at last take time to look at the Washington Monument when he comes to the capital within a day or two to visit the President and Mrs. Coolidge, who will entertain him at luncheon [illegible]. Following the dinner at the Swedish legation there will be a reception.

The Vice President and Mrs. Dawes had just time to take off their riding clothes and don evening attire before receiving the President and Mrs. Coolidge and a few other guests at dinner Tuesday night. The Scott residence leased by Mr. and Mrs. Dawes sits on a hill and the chief executive and Mrs. Coolidge looked down on the moonlight bathing the city in a soft glow and the lights twinkling like myriads of fireflies. There is no better or more extensive view of Washington than that seen from the windows of the Dawes home.

There is always a fly in the social ointment of life in the capital, and this is the season when diplomats and their money are soon parted. One thinks of the long series of brilliant benefit balls with ambassadors and ministers and their wives as patrons or sponsors without ever taking into account the financial cost to those—often under-paid temporary citizens and the terrible strain on their purse strings. One Chatelaine of the home of a Latin-American diplomat confesses to having dispensed with several really necessary servants in order to buy boxes and tickets for these events that are to benefit purely local charities.

Every mail brings its bunch of tickets for balls, musicales, lectures and concerts and even the church workers turn in their plea for something in the way of a doll, a piece of bric-a-brac or some of the handiwork of the women and children of their countries. The drain is heavy and incessant, and especially so when one considers that pleas also come from their own countries for help.

The first Lady of the Land recently received an unexpected but nevertheless welcome addition to her collection of autographed photographs. It came about in an interesting way. Mrs. Coolidge has a large collection of bed spreads ranging from the hand-knit variety and the no less [illegible]

[illegible] paid. Work of 91-year-old [illegible]. It was a patchwork quilt set together by an eight-year-old girl from some remote section that interested Mrs. Coolidge to the point of writing a letter of thanks and autographing one of her photographs for the quilter. Twelve shortly after had a letter of thanks and a photograph of the [illegible] maker of the quilt autographed. A courtesy that Mrs. Coolidge greatly appreciated.

AUSTRIAN JEWS SUE THE IMPERIAL WIDOW

Sopronez, Dec. 1 (AP).—Ex-Empress Zita of Austria will be the central figure in a curious lawsuit which will be heard before the civil court in December.

The Jewish community of Pronmolitor, a suburb of Budapest, is suing the imperial widow for the fulfillment of a promise which the Jews received from the late Emperor Francis Joseph.

Some time before the war a deputation of prominent Hungarian Jews was received in audience by the aged monarch. They requested that the emperor give them a plot of land for the building of a synagogue. The emperor agreed, but the years went by and the promise was forgotten. When the Jews tried to bring the case before the court chamberlain they were informed that the promise was not valid because the building plot had been given to someone-else.

A second delegation obtained a promise from the monarch of another piece of land and again they were disappointed. It turned out that this land, too, had been leased to an industrial concern. Finally, the war broke out and the Jews were drafted in the army.

At the close of hostilities a third deputation obtained another promise of land. They heard nothing further about it. Meanwhile, Austria-Hungary went to pieces and Hungary became an independent state.

ICE BOX MUSEUM WOULD HOUSE MUMMIES OF 1928

Moscow, Dec. 1 (AP).—A gigantic Refrigerator Museum in ice covered Siberia for the scientific preservation of men and animals has been planned by the Far Eastern Geophysical Observatory.

The phenomenon of "eternal frost" in parts of Siberia is thought to be entirely suitable for such a project. It has been found that organic elements can be preserved for centuries in the frozen ground. Proof is cited in the discovery of the bodies of mammoths in a refrigerated condition.

Sponsors of the museum plan to file away for the ages specimens of all races, the utensils of their daily life, food products and animals. It is estimated that about $5,000,000 will be required and application will be made to scientific organizations all over the world for donations.

LEAGUE CALLS MEETING TO BAN COUNTERFEITING

Geneva, Dec. 1 (AP).—The League of Nations has issued invitations for an international conference against counterfeiting. It will begin at Geneva on April 9, next year, and give the final touches to a draft convention which has already been framed by experts, including American.

All governments have been asked to empower their delegates to sign the convention, once it has been adopted.

Already there exists close collaboration between the police forces of the nations to run down international criminals.

SMART HATS MOLD THE HEAD AND MAY BE INLAID WITH FUR

New York.—The cutlass hat has come in for considerable comment, most of which is favorable. To wear a hat which gives the effect of going without one seems to be woman's whim. By the use of fur or feathers in this effect usually brought about although finger waves and applique of roulette in semblance of marcel wearing may become familiar spectacles.

Inserts of fur cut, such as brief schwanz are resorted to as pleasing decorations for hats which fit the head snugly and are often quite innocent of brim. Turbans and berets in felt and in tricot novelties are a smart expression of the moment, while soleil rivals velvet for the dressier type of hat about which one reads rather more often than sees.

A Bang and Chignon effect in Fur Are Among the Several Ways in Which the Coiffure Hat Is Developed.

(Copyright, 1928, by Fairchild.)

Any check of smart millinery colors will be swamped under the total of black hats counted. A hat still depends on its silhouette and the intricacy of its workmanship for its character and while trimmings are introduced daringly at one side on some of the dressier models they are a long way from being generally acclaimed. There is however a mass demand for rhinestones on black velvet.

Wedding processions of the season are hatted in skull cap and other close-fitting helmet shapes rather than in the more usual picture types. It remains then only to admit that the small hat carries the day and the night as well, and that while tiny brims are made to do interesting things, they are more frequently than not omitted.

Novel Collars, Suits and Other Modish Style Interests

PARIS TELLS OF ENDLESS VARIATIONS OF SHORT JACKET THEME

New York.—Endless variations of the short jacket theme mark a spirit and end with the suit. Indications from Paris are to the effect that the fall hour always a middleaged favorite with the Parisienne has been continued until in some cases it supplantures for a dress and a supplement by a top coat, fur or otherwise.

All this gives one confidence in the suit, not only for spring but for southern wear, especially since suits are made not only of woolens but of silks, tricots, velveteens, novelty cottons and of course linens. The need hardly specialize of tweed since the tweed suit has become invaluable.

Linen suits loom large on the southern horizon and will continue wraps shortening to jacket length, in some, though certainly not all cases, it does seem as though the short jacket would be acclaimed supremely or coupled with a skirt and vest is more startling still a tuck-in or under-the-skirt blouse. Lelong successfully launched a group of light weight woolen tailleurs, with sport jackets and wrap-around skirt, varied by an occasional pleated skirt. Grays and black were chosen for this group. Others feel confident it may be a suit color, but gray appears to have captured the imagination. White suits come in for praise and the consideration of those southward bo.

Louisebourianger, who often deals in extremes, launched novelty striped woolen dresses supplemented by unlined sleeveless jackets. This house also makes excellent use of black or navy and white check silk gabardine.

WEST SHOKAN.

West Shokan, Dec. 1.—The I. O. O. F. oyster supper, which was held Wednesday evening at the Tongore Hall, proved to be a great success. While this annual affair always draws crowds from far and near, this year a greater number than ever was in attendance. About 275 were served with supper which consisted not only of oysters to capacity, but an excellent menu extra to appease all appetites. Music was furnished by the Mechanics' orchestra of Kingston throughout the serving of the supper, after which the tables and chairs were cleared away and both round and square dancing was freely engaged in by many of the younger set besides a goodly number of those of more mature years who seemed to enter into the spirit of the festivities with a zest akin to those of their younger companions. This affair proved to be one that will long linger in the memory of the many people from far and near who attended.

Mr. and Mrs. S. D. Scudder, Jr., of Kingston entertained a number of relatives and friends on Thanksgiving at their country home on West Shokan Heights, overlooking the reservoir.

Among the Thanksgiving guests stopping at the Traver Hollow Inn are Mrs. Ida Snyder and son, Joseph, also Mr. and Mrs. William Weiss and son, William, Jr., all of New York city.

Lawrence Kelder and friend, Miss Evelyn Light of New York city, are spending the Thanksgiving season at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Addie Kelder of West Shokan Heights.

John Jordan, Morton Roe and Raymond Kelder assisted E. C. Davis with the butchering of a hog yesterday on Thursday in the art of which Mr. Jordan is considered the local expert.

Sanford Bell with his gasoline saw rig assisted by Marvin Vandemark was busily engaged in the manufacture of fire wood for Mrs. Minnie Smith on Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. J. V. Merrihew of Kingston, on Wednesday visited the latter's mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Eckert, whose condition is very poor at this writing.

Lester "Skin" Davis, with the assistance of relatives and friends, made a killing of his three fat swine on Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. George Beggs and family of Boiceville were Thanksgiving callers among friends in this neighborhood.

It is expected that a large number of Kingston, as well as local celebrities will be in attendance when the starting guns rings for the Thanksgiving masquerade at Colange Hall on Saturday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Virgil C. Gordon and family of Brodhead are vacationing over the week end with relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. Philip Dwyer and Mrs. Katherine Sherman and Bernard Dwyer of Kingston were Thanksgiving [illegible] home of the Wilson family.

Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Dwyer of West Hurley and Mr. and Mrs. Sylvester Jones were entertained at the Kelder home on Thanksgiving Day.

William Jones of Main street is suffering from an infection of the hand caused by a mishit with a hammer a week ago.

Mr. and Mrs. Michael Dwyer, accompanied by Samuel Cassedy and Walter Willow, also John Henriksen, Jr., of New Jersey, were Thanksgiving visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Henriksen, Sr., at their home on Main street.

MOSLEM UNIVERSITY DROPS ANCIENT WAYS

Cairo, Egypt, Dec. 1 (AP).—The ancient Islamic University of El Azhar, the greatest in all the east, where the 14,000 students pay no fees and the professors get no pay, is to be modernized.

Not with football teams, cheer leaders and campus flappers, but by raising the standard of education, and providing schools organized on modern lines for the thousands of students who gather from all the Mohammedan world. Instead of 14,000 students, as at present, the number will be limited to 5,000.

Hitherto, old Azhar has been concerned chiefly with the teaching of the Koran. Professors made their living by private teaching and by copying manuscripts, students theirs by the same methods or by reciting the Koran.

To meet the demand for better qualified judges in Moslem courts, various reforms have been attempted, but from time to time abandoned. Now the objects of the university are to produce qualified teachers of Mohammedan theology, Mohammedan law, and the Arabic language, and men who can be trained as judges and lawyers, also to provide missionaries for Mohammedan countries.

HAITIAN COFFEE CROP IS BIGGEST IN HISTORY.

Port Au Prince, Haiti, Dec. 1 (AP).—King Coffee scored heavily in the final balance sheet for Haiti's fiscal year, which ended September 30. With an average crop of 67,000,000 pounds of the aromatic berry for the preceding period of ten years, this year's crop reached the maximum in all of Haitian history with the bumper crop of 90,000,000 pounds.

With an export tax averaging two and one-half cents per pound, coffee contributed 72 per cent of Haiti's export revenue in the last ten years, and the influence of this year's phenomenal crop may be easily realized.

With this dominant factor the year closed with record figures in customs receipts, while the internal and total receipts also reached new figures.

AIR LINERS WILL FLY FROM MIAMI TO CUBA.

Havana, Dec. 1 (AP).—Daily airplane service between Miami, Florida, and this city are announced to open next month by the Pan-American Airways Corporation. The present passenger service between Havana and Key West will be discontinued December 1.

A new tri-weekly service between Miami and San Juan, Porto Rico, will be started about the same time.

—a Six in the price range of the four!

Since the announcement of The Outstanding Chevrolet of Chevrolet History, tens of thousands of people have already placed their orders for this sensational new car! Never before has any new Chevrolet ever won such tremendous public acceptance in so short a period of time!

The great new six-cylinder valve-in-head motor is an engineering masterpiece. Not only does it develop 32% more power than any previous Chevrolet motor . . . not only does it offer increased speed and faster acceleration—but it provides this amazing performance with such outstanding economy that it delivers an average of better than 20 miles to the gallon of gasoline!

A new heavier crankshaft, statically and dynamically balanced—and designed with shorter crank throws to minimize torsional strain—results in a degree of smoothness and freedom from vibration that is truly remarkable. A new automatic lubricating system carries a continuous supply of oil to the entire rocker arm mechanism—resulting in unusual quietness of operation.

A plentiful supply of gasoline is assured under all operating conditions by a new AC gasoline pump and filter. An automatic accelerating pump on the new carburetor gives faster acceleration and increased economy. And scores of other features—such as fabric camshaft gear . . . hot-spot manifold . . . high compression, non-detonating head . . . and semi-automatic spark control—contribute to every phase of performance, economy, long life and dependability.

Throughout the entire chassis is found similarly advanced design. Four long semi-elliptic shock absorber springs—set parallel to the frame and equipped with Alemite lubrication at all the shackle joints—cushion the entire upper structure against road shocks. A full ball-bearing steering mechanism, with complete lubrication at all the points of contact, results in delightful ease of control. And newly-designed 4-wheel brakes—positive in action, easy of application and noiseless in operation—provide a measure of braking control that is more than equal to the most unusual requirements.

The marvelous new bodies by Fisher are longer, lower and roomier and incorporate in all closed models an adjustable driver's seat that may be moved forward and back to suit the comfort of the driver!

Come in and learn the full and significant story of this greatest of all Chevrolets!

New York, Dec. 1 (AP)—Speculation [illegible] [illegible] small segment of the market with [illegible] [illegible] irregular. [illegible] open [illegible] in [illegible] Market, [illegible] the New York Curb Market yesterday, followed by a further sharp decline in that stock today. [illegible] with the day [illegible] in [illegible] and the 1-point drop in the New York Federal Reserve Bank rate apparently had a sobering influence on speculative sentiment.

Increased margin requirements put into effect today by some of the large commission houses and the increasing number of customers' accounts are tended to keep speculation in check. While yesterday's [illegible] per cent money rate is believed to be temporary, bankers hold out little hope for easy money rates until after the turn of the year, due to the expanding holiday demand for funds.

Steel shares ran into some selling at the opening, despite trade reports that the seasonal decline in production had been checked, but fresh buying support was supplied and partial recoveries were made. The so-called independent motor stocks also turned heavy on selling inspired by the speculative belief that the keen competition resulting from the recent introduction of new models would tend to reduce profits.

Graham-Paige dropped nearly four points and Hup three.

International Nickel, which soared 10½ points at the opening, lost nearly half of its gain. Sears Roebuck dipped nearly four points and such recent favorites as Consolidated Gas, General Electric, Calico and Standard Oil of New Jersey sold a point or so lower.

Missouri-Kansas-Texas common jumped 17 to a new high, and there was a fairly well sustained demand for the other rails on expectations that the November earnings statements would make an even more favorable comparison with last year's figures than the October statements.

Pools were moderately active in a select assortment of specialties including Radio, White Sewing Machine, Great Western Sugar, Coty Liquid Carbonic and Skelly Oil.

The closing was irregular. Total sales approximated 2,480,000 shares.

SELF-FEEDING OF SOWS AND PIGS

[illegible]

"A noticeable fact about the sows [illegible] was that [illegible] at the [illegible] when a [illegible] more sows [illegible]

"Taking [illegible] of self-feeders [illegible] less feed [illegible] pounds of [illegible] are in better condition at weaning time, and that it is possible to put the pigs on the market at an earlier age [illegible] feed. It seems conclusive that the practice of self-feeding sows and pigs during the suckling period is one that can be safely [illegible] by hog producers.

Steers for Feeding Need Good Qualities

Steers for feeding must have beef characteristics [illegible] beef ancestry. These may be obtained quite satisfactorily by continually using pure-bred bulls of the same type and breed.

The highest percentage of good cuts and the least waste in killing are the qualities desired in beef steers. In selecting feeders, however, a strong frame with plenty of room for vital organs, must be chosen, for the steer that would fill with least waste might not be strong enough to put on the greatest amount of flesh economically.

A wide strong neck, great heart girth, and smooth covering of flesh are essentials in a good feeder. The head is an excellent index of the power of a steer to make economical gains. A side view of the body from hocks and knees to back bone should show a well-filled rectangle. The general form should be compact and deep and broad. Short-legged animals are desirable. Good balance or proportion of parts is very important.

Cattle are classified by the purpose for which they are sold and graded according to their fitness for that purpose.

Feeders are usually bought at the big markets or from local buyers. High-priced land cannot be profitably used to raise steers. When to buy depends largely on the buyer's equipment, the amount and time he intends to feed, and on the condition of the steers.

Live Stock Items

Hogs are the only domestic animals raised for food alone.

Good feed allowed in liberal amounts aids the lambs to withstand stomach worms.

* * *

Many farmers have a good deal of difficulty getting the fall litters through the winter and often come through with a stunted, mangey, scurvy outfit of pigs.

* * *

The symptoms of stomach worm disease in sheep can often be recognized by the animals' gray walk; drooping ears; hanging head; emaciated body, and shaggy wool coat.

* * *

The feeding of tobacco, either in the feed or mixed with the salt, has proved ineffective against stomach worms.

* * *

The addition of alfalfa hay and tankage meal or buttermilk to yellow corn and tankage greatly improves the ration as a feed for pigs.

When sheep are kept on cultivated farm land, the hoofs grow out long and often crooked. Keep this over-growth trimmed down even with the bottom of the foot.

Spreading Christmas Cheer with Light

Announcing Outdoor Christmas Lighting Contests

Outdoor Christmas lighting creates a cheerful friendly holiday atmosphere which stimulates the Christmas spirit and the community interest among the residents of city and village and gives a warm greeting to strangers at Christmas time.

The movement has a real human appeal, for decorated homes and grounds with beautiful illuminated displays spread the season's wishes with a welcoming light.

Realizing the value that such Christmas displays have in developing a greater Christmas consciousness, the Hudson Valley Electrical League last year conducted Outdoor Christmas Lighting Contests in Poughkeepsie, Newburgh and Kingston, the three major cities of the Central Hudson Region. The public acceptance of this contest was so pronounced and the results so gratifying that this year the Outdoor Christmas Lighting Contests will not be confined to the three cities mentioned above but many of the smaller towns in the territory served by the Central Hudson Gas & Electric Corporation will be included.

In each organized community the contest will be directed and sponsored by the local electric league and supported by a local newspaper. On another page of this paper details concerning your local contest will be outlined, and throughout the period of the contest additional newspaper publicity will explain further details and offer suggestions for effective holiday lighting.

Calendar of Cases for Supreme Court

Calendar Contains 408 Cases, of Which Many Are Marked Over Term and Others Announced as Settled.

County Clerk Walter G. Geroldsek under the rule of the Supreme court called the calendar for the December term of the court Friday afternoon at the court house and at that time marked cases for the call. Of the 408 cases on the calendar many were marked over the term, several were announced as settled and in many of the others settlement is pending.

Cases in which A. W. Lent appears as attorney were marked for the second week as Mr. Lent has just returned home from the hospital and will be unable to attend to his cases during the first week. This marking in No. 46, Henry Erichsen against Joseph Falci, Vera Seaman and another, an action for foreclosure of chattel mortgage, brought a protest from John R. Seaman of Highland. Mr. Seaman objected to the marking and demanded an immediate trial. He stated that A. W. Lent was not attorney of record in the case but that Harold A. Lent was, and the illness of A. W. Lent, who will be trial lawyer, was no grounds for the case being held open. Mr. Geroldsek explained to Mr. Seaman that he could not take any action and suggested that he take the matter up with Judge Russell Monday. Mr. Seaman undoubtedly will do so as he has appeared in court several times, acting as his own attorney.

Day Calendar for Monday.

A day calendar was made up as follows

No. 2, Harry Jackson against Walker D. Hines, director general of railroads, a negligence action.

No. 245, David Scherer against Bijou Garment Corp., an action to recover on a contract.

No. 265, Oliver Bindewald against Isador Jaffe.

No. 274, Bertha Snyder against George D. Stroneman and Melvin Sharp, negligence action.

Motion to Dismiss Assault Case.

An action brought by Louis Gorenstein against the New York, Ontario & Western Railroad and another, for assault and battery, which appears on the calendar, was moved off by John T. Cahill, who appears for Philip Elting, attorney for the defendant railroad. Mr Cahill stated that the case had been on the October calendar and at that time Judge Staley had ruled that if the case was not tried at the October term it would be dismissed. The case was passed on the call but was not stricken from the calendar when marked. There will be a motion later to dismiss.

Cases Settled.

Among the cases announced as settled are:

No. 155, Harry Lewis against Clarence Babcock, negligence. [illegible] B. Murray for plaintiff, Ireland and Caverly for defendant.

No. 172, Robert R. Brown against Samuel Feinstein, action for money had and received. M. O. Auchmoody for plaintiff. Benjamin Berger for defendant.

No. 254, Anna Evans against J. Edouarde LeVine and C. G. Behre, damage to personal property. A. D. and A. W. Lent for plaintiff, and L. Halle for defendant.

No. 258, Benjamin Cherney against Charles E. Cornelius, negligence. Manuel Dittenheimer for plaintiff and Rosendale, Dugan & Haines for defendant.

No. 281, W. C. Sheley, as admin., etc., against Isidore and Max Hoffman, promissory note. LeRoy Lounsbery for plaintiff. Morris Kenfer for defendant.

No. 310, Henry Blodgett against E. E. Molyneaux, negligence. F. W. Brooks for plaintiff. J. W. Eckert for defendant.

No. 324, K. L. Shields against M. F. Casey, work, labor and services. W. D. Cunningham for plaintiff, G. C. Suffin for defendant.

No. 317, Elmer Mousseau against William McNeil and George Samuels, negligence. Grant M. Brinnier for plaintiff, and Carter & Conboy for defendant.

Court will convene Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock with Judge Russell presiding.

ARM CHAIR JOURNEYS
Gilded Platter Berlin Barbers' Sign To Other Lands

By Louis P. Lochner
(Associated Press Staff Writer)

Berlin (AP)—Signs and symbols displayed in front of German shops are quite as baffling to the stranger as was the Indian before an American cigar store or the red, white and blue pillar before a barber shop. Butchers, barbers and dairymen are among those in Germany who have clung to century-old trademarks.

The spectacle of a kitchen chair draped with a spotless white apron hanging out in front of a butcher shop causes no end of amusement in fall and winter. It means that fresh, warm sausage is for sale inside.

The aproned chair had its origin more than two centuries ago on the farms which surrounded the numerous villages. Farmers, their wives and hired hands, having finished slaughtering pigs and cooking up meat and blood for sausage, washed out their aprons and hung them over chairs to dry in the sun. City folk happening by soon learned to realize that the aproned chair was a never failing sign of fresh sausage.

When a shop displays what looks like a large golden apple, but is in reality a gilded ball, it means that butter is sold there. The gilded ball idea was obtained from Dutch dairy farmers who at the invitation of King Frederick William I settled in the valley of the Havel river near Potsdam. The immigrants from the Netherlands brought their butter to market in balls.

A barber shop can be espied half a block away by the brass soup plate which dangles from a rod extending over the sidewalk. This sign dates back before the invention of the shaving mug. Tonsorial artists of old worked up a lather in a shallow platter resembling a soup plate. Some of these fine old china plates are still in use today. They furnished the inspiration for the gilded platter.

Barbers catering to American trade hang out a small red and white striped pole in addition to the "soup plate". Suggestions of changing the emblem because of the number of feminine visitors now frequenting barber shops have been turned down by overwhelming majorities in master barbers' meetings.

Berlin's official sign is a black bear sitting erect on his haunches, his red tongue curled out of his mouth. It is a sign which appears on all tourist literature distributed by the municipal tourist bureau. The bear has figured in the city's annals since its founding about 1134, chiefly because of its prevalence in the surrounding forests.

The bear in walking pose was chosen for the official municipal seal when various towns about 1709 united to form what is now the heart of Berlin.

France Wonders What Hoover May Do About Tariff

By E. F. Wader.

Associated Press Correspondent.

Paris, Dec. 1 (AP)—French business men and political leaders are awaiting with much interest the disclosure of the tariff policy of the new administration in the United States.

They expect no particular relief in the way of reductions of duties on French products, but they hope for some softening of the regulations whereby values are put on imports from France.

The remark is often made in political as well as business circles that if present methods of appraising French goods, and hygienic rules that hinder the export of French agricultural products to America continue, it will be difficult for France to meet payments coming due on war debts.

The two countries seem to have reached a deadlock on the question of appraisals of French goods. The action of treasury agents in France, investigating the cost of French exports by consulting the books of the manufacturers, was, it is now said by exporters, scarcely less objectionable than the arbitrary value put on French goods at the custom house.

They are such, exporters say, as practically to throttle some lines of the export trade.

The French proposed as a compromise that the American government pick out French experts to appraise costs. The United States government rejected this proposal, and the matter now stands where it did when the treasury agents were withdrawn. Meanwhile, the proposed negotiations for a complete commercial agreement between the two countries stand in abeyance.

GREEK MONASTERIES ARE PICTURESQUE

By William Miller.

(Associated Press Staff Writer)

Athens (AP)—Although the tendency of modern life in Greece is against monasticism, and it is proposed to limit by law the number of monks under a certain age, there are still a few countries where the monasteries are so picturesque.

One Greek monastery, Megaspelaion, is, as its name implies, entirely built inside a "great cave" in the face of a huge cliff, so that when the Egyptians besieged it during the War of Independance the rocks which they hurled down from above never hit the monastery at all.

Another group of monasteries in Thessaly, the famous Meteora, or monasteries "in the air," are so called because they are built on the summit of inaccessible, isolated rocks, rising, like huge mushrooms, out of a valley of stones.

Until a few years ago the only way of reaching them was by means of swinging ladders, hanging along the surface of the perpendicular cliffs, or by large nets, let down by the monks by a pulley and a windlass from above. The visitor lay down in the net, which was gathered around his body, and he was hauled up like a fish. Now, however, steps have been cut in the rocks.

Greek monasteries are very hospitable. No charge is made for entertaining the traveler; women are admitted, except to the 20 monasteries of Mount Athos—the "Holy Mountain," on which no female being is allowed to set foot, to Parliament, and to the great monastery of Nea Mone in Chios.

The monks are not scholars engaged in research, but usually peasants, who work in the gardens and fields of their monasteries. But they are keenly interested in politics.

A present of the Athenian newspapers wins the heart of the abbot and he may reciprocate it by the delicate attention of offering the sheep's eye out of the dish at supper on the end of his own fork as a tit-bit to the amazed traveler, who cannot refuse it any more than he can refuse to answer the inevitable questions about the number of his children and the nature of his occupation.

What New York Society Is Doing

New York, Dec. 1 (AP).—New York spread a dizzying variety of festivities for two visiting royal parties this week that outmatched any the Metropolis had laid down before. It began to unfold early Monday morning when society folk wrenched themselves from comfortable beds to greet the noble Swedish wedding party, headed by Count Folke Bernadotte, nephew of Sweden's king, who arrived on the liner Gripsholm. It unrolled further at the whirl of entertainment given in honor of the Swedish party and the Spanish royal party headed by Don Infante Alfonso, cousin of the King of Spain, and his wife, Infanta Donna Beatriz. It reached its end at the wedding of Miss Estelle Manville and Count Bernadotte Saturday afternoon.

The benefit performance of "La Traviata" at the Metropolitan Opera House Tuesday evening found society wrapped in ermine and pearls, dividing its attention between Lucrezia Bori's "Violetta" and the Spanish royal party. During intermissions a battery of opera glasses was turned on Box No. 1 where the Infante and Infanta sat as guests of Brigadier General and Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt. The Infanta, a sister of Queen Marie of Rumania, wore a gown of silver sequins made with a close-fitting bodice and flared skirt, and completed her costume with a tiara of diamonds and a chinchilla wrap.

Mrs. Graham Fair Vanderbilt, chairman of the benefit, which was given to aid the fund for founding a university in Madrid, Spain, occupied a box nearby. Mrs. Vanderbilt, attired in flesh-colored sequins and a wrap of rose metal cloth, had as her guests Prince De Lingne, Belgian Ambassador to the United States, and the Princess De Lingne. After the performance she entertained at a reception and supper at her home in honor of the Infante and Infanta.

Royalty at Conde Nast Party.

The party which Conde Nast gave at his home in honor of Miss Charlotte Brown, fiancee of his son, Coudert, was the next festivity visited by the royal parties. The dance was held in the conservatory, which was hung with Harding blue lace and showered by silver smilax. Miniature blue lights produced a tropical sky effect over sprays of bronze and yellow chrysanthemums and growing orange trees. Tables for the royal parties were decorated in the Swedish and Spanish national colors.

The wedding of Miss Estelle Manville to Count Folke Bernadotte drew royalty and aristocracy to Pleasantville, N. Y., Saturday afternoon for one of the most brilliant ceremonies of the season. A bridal veil of Brussels lace, the gift of Queen Sophia of Sweden to the groom's family, was worn by Miss Manville. The veil was held by a coronet of silver and crystals recently made by the Swedish court jeweler. Three wedding marches—Lohengrin's, Mendelssohn's and Soderman's Swedish wedding march—marked the ceremony, which was followed by a reception at the country estate of the bride's father.

Debutantes Come Forward.

Debutantes, thrust into the background by entertainments for visiting celebrities, came into their own Thanksgiving Day when many parties were given in their honor. Miss Jane Shonnard was introduced to society by her mother that evening at a supper dance where hundreds of yellow chrysanthemums against a forest of oak trees formed the decorative scheme. A Thanksgiving supper, near breakfast time, completed the festivities.

Miss Grace Ruggles Lane, who made her bow at a reception given by her grandmother, Mrs. Henry Meyer Johnson at the Colony Club, is among the season's debutantes who have departed from the traditional white coming out frock. Miss Lane made her debut in a shell pink velvet gown with a seed pearl bodice. She carried pink and yellow roses.

Famous Pets at One Party.

"Famous pets of famous people" outshone in popularity both royalty and debutantes at one party this week. A bear owned by Patricia Zelgfeld, a Pekingese dog belonging to Fannie Hurst, and twin tiger kittens, the property of Cissie Loftus, were among entries for the popularity contest held at the Waldorf in aid of the New York Women's League for Animals. Miss Ethel Barrymore, Mrs. Fritz Krisler and Miss Eva La Gallienne were among patronesses of the show.

Concert Music at a Counter

By GEORGIA GRANT

RUTH'S mother had often remarked that her daughter had a shade more calm than was required of a girl. Ruth was firm, very firm, and when she once had an idea interlaced under her sleek black hair it was a difficult matter to dislodge it.

For two years Wallace had called upon Ruth three times a week and the engagement was an implied affair, although not yet announced. Therefore, when Ruth happened to be downtown with her brother one Monday night and saw Wallace carrying the traveling bag of a remarkably pretty girl, a stranger in the village, she felt that she was justly angered. Ruth was the village pianist, and had long wished to go to the city to do concert work, but had hated to leave Fulton on account of Wallace.

The following Saturday night Wallace presented himself with the customary half-pound box of caramels to learn that Ruth had gone to Chicago to begin a musical career. Mrs. Black finally gave him the address of Ruth's boarding house, but told him frankly that she thought it useless for him to go to see her. "Ruth is so queer and stubborn," she said, thoughtfully. "I don't know why she's angry with you, but she is."

Wallace, who knew of Ruth's tendency to jealousy, was pretty sure that Ruth had heard of the stranger's visit to his home, but there was no use talking about the affair. Della had been the guest of his mother and he had been obliged to be courteous to her.

So, after a sleepless night, Wallace went to the city, but when he called at the boarding house and asked for Miss Black, Ruth, who had seen him from her window, most unwisely sent the message that she was engaged.

"Don't you find it thrilling to be in this beautiful city, where one is near the great art centers and—everything?" asked a fluffy-haired girl who was visiting her aunt at the boarding house.

"No," said Ruth shortly, "I don't. The city is quite different than I imagined. When I played at home in Fulton, the paper would write up a nice account of it, and I supposed I'd be able to get into concert work without a bit of trouble—"

"Concert work," breathed the other, looking at the rather sad dark face under the gleaming black hair.

"But," went on Ruth bleakly, "I found that the very best I could do with my music was—" She hesitated; the sight of Wallace had redoubled her homesickness. If she had only had some wonderful triumph to mention, she would have gone back gladly to the cheerful village where the faces were familiar and—here lay the gist of the matter—friendly. She went on: "I was finally lucky enough to get a place in a department store to play the popular music."

Wallace went away in a white rage. It was an unheard-of thing for a friend to send down word that she was engaged.

The words of an old-fashioned song that Ruth sang when she felt especially friendly rang through his mind as he trudged through the rain. "I suppose she never sings that any more," he reflected.

He had a list of commissions from his shop, and he drearily set about his shopping.

The early dusk of a late fall day had set in as he turned in at the station for his train west when he stopped among the stream of umbrellas. He had forgotten to get a sample punching-bag that was needed for display. "I suppose it's too late to get back to the wholesale shops, but I know they carry the same line of goods in a department store not far from here. I'll have time to rush back."

As he stepped out of the crowded elevator, a blare of jazz music burst out at him, and he shrugged distastefully. This was the city where Ruth chose to stay. Well, let her stay. He preferred home and peace. He found the punching bag, and stood waiting impatiently for his change. If he did miss the train, there were others.

He wondered if Ruth was making a wonderful success of her playing—the salesgirl was holding out his change, but the customer, a moment before so impatient, had apparently realized that some one was playing Ruth's song. Following the lure of the old-fashioned melody, he found the music counter, and among the gaudy music covers he caught a glimpse of a satiny black head.

"Aw, lay off'n that old tune," advised a sharp-eyed girl in knee skirts, "play 'My Own, Own, Own Honey,' and get a snap into it."

The black-haired girl whirled around on the stool and Wallace saw the white face of Ruth. A different Ruth, though, with tired circles under her dark eyes and a tremendous droop to her pink mouth.

"Wallace," her eyes finally rested on him and the words burst from her with unmistakable gladness; then as he said nothing, a deep shamed red dyed her white face as she recalled her ungracious message of the Sunday previous.

The rather shabby young man in his raincoat went to the side of the counter and leaned across, his eyes fixed on the pianist. "Had enough of the city?" he asked.

And Ruth, obvious of the surging crowd around them, sighed with relief. "Yes," she said earnestly, "let's go home."

NEW PALTZ

New Paltz, Dec. 1.—The American Legion state they are making good progress in their annual membership drive. At present they have 30 per cent of the old members signed for 1929, which compares very favorably with last year. During the last two months there has been much said regarding the formation of a Legion Post at Gardiner. It has been finally decided to postpone the formation of a post there and the Legion members here hope the ex-service men of Gardiner will continue as members of Sullivan-Shafer Post.

A Thanksgiving dinner was served at Buckeye Farm by Mrs. E. R. Kite.

Mrs. Eber Rhodes and son, Gordon of Modena, visited friends in town the past week.

Mrs. Solomon Van Orden was among several from this vicinity who attended the Child Guidance School at Kingston on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday afternoons of last week, in charge of Dr. Marguerite Wilker of the State College of Economics at Cornell College.

Mr. and Mrs. Myron Shultis entertained a number of guests from Wallkill and Port Ewen on Sunday.

Sullivan-Shafer Post, American Legion, regrets the loss of Comrade T. Waye from their midst, but congratulate him on his promotion by the Central Hudson Gas and Electric Corporation.

The New Paltz High School basketball team furnished the opposition to Beacon High's basketball team in a battle in the down-river city Tuesday night. The game was in the Beacon High School gym. The New Paltz outfit this year is probably the strongest ever representing the school and is hoping to avenge the defeats at the hands of Beacon teams in the past. Beacon opened up last Friday against Braden Hall and was defeated but since then the boys have been practicing hard and were confident of future winning.

Several New Paltz people saw the eclipse of the moon Tuesday morning between 2:24 a. m. and 5:39 a. m.

GERMAN SUBMARINE HERO INSPIRES NEW MONUMENT

Herford, Germany, Dec. 1 (AP).—A bronze monument to Captain Otto Weddigen, Germany's submarine hero, is to be erected on an island in the river Werra near this town. It will take the form of a bow of a submarine 26 feet long and 10 feet high, on which stands in natural size the statue of Weddigen dressed in oilskins.

Weddigen played a brief but sensational part in the early months of the world war. He sank the British armored cruisers Hogue, Aboukir and Cressy in quick succession in the North Sea September 22, 1914, and the cruiser Hawke three weeks later, but his submarine U 29 was sunk by a British ship in March of the following year, and he and his crew perished.

DRY BROOK.

Dry Brook, Dec. 1, 1928.—Supervisor W. E. Avery was a business caller in Kingston first of the week.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Todd returned to Waterbury, Conn., after spending two weeks at their home in Haynes Hollow.

Mrs. George Armstrong accompanied by her father, Frank Fairbairn, spent the week end at the home of Gerald Todd in New Berlin.

Mrs. Augustus Stewart is at Dr. Lefkovics during Thanksgiving week.

County Superintendent James F. Loughran was in this place last week looking over and drawing plans for a concrete bridge near Seager school house, same to be built this coming spring.

Mr. and Mrs. Grover Kittle were business callers in Margaretville Tuesday.

Question As To Origin Of Smoking Suggested By Harvard Discoveries

Cambridge, Mass. (AP).—Question whether tobacco smoking originated exclusively in America is raised by archeological finds now en route from Africa to Peabody Museum of Harvard.

The smoking riddle and other secrets of equatorial Africa in the centuries preceding the modern white man's arrival there are contained in materials excavated during 1927 and 1928 by a Harvard expedition headed by Frederick R. Wulsin of the Harvard museum. Mr. Wulsin has returned ahead of the archeological finds.

The expedition was sponsored by the Bureau of International Research of the Laura Spelman Rockefeller fund, and consisted of Frederick R. Wulsin, Patrick T. L. Putnam and Milton Katz. Its purposes were search for archeological material in the Sudan which might throw light on the movement of populations there, and the study of pygmies. The students of the pygmy still are in Africa.

Clay objects were found which may have been pipe bowls. They were far down in a mound which appeared to be many hundred years old.

The bowls will be subjected to chemical analysis for possible traces of tobacco, hemp or perfume as the most likely mixtures which may have been smoked in them. Mr. Wulsin says that identification of tobacco smoking would be unexpected, as the bowls appear to antedate the discovery of America.

Several village sites were excavated. The most pretentious was at Goulfei, in French Africa. In this mound, adjacent to a modern town, four layers of ashes and the cultural archeogolical materials in them indicated four villages had existed, each of the last three on the ashes of its predecessor.

Mr. Wulsin found present-day Africa growing up socially. His expedition had a negro cook, whose father had been a cannibal. It had also a Mohammedan guide. One night Mr. Wulsin heard the cook and the Mohammedan arguing in French, each attempting to prove that the other was descended from a cannibal, while his own family tree had no such branch.

A servant problem has been created, at least for archeologists, by the automobile, Mr. Wulsin said. Fifteen years ago, on a previous expedition that traveled on foot, he found it easy to hire help for all the campwork. This time, with limited carrying capacity of an auto truck fixing the amount of help, the archeologists had to do most of their own packing.

U. S. Attorney Tuttle Says It Was Not Conducted With the Object of Finding a Scapegoat—Outlines Constructive Suggestions.

New York, Dec. 1 (AP).—The Federal investigation of the sinking of the British liner Vestris off the Virginia Capes November 12 with the loss of 110 lives is closed. All that remained today was a report of their findings by the two nautical advisers of the inquiry and that of the presiding commissioner.

The advisors, Captain E. P. Jessop, representing the United States, and Captain Henry McConkey the British government, are to summarize their findings Wednesday. Commissioner O'Neill will make his report later.

In an address at the conclusion of the introduction of testimony United States Attorney Tuttle reiterated his statement made at the opening of the inquiry that it was a "fact finding" investigation and had not been conducted with the object of finding a scapegoat.

He said it had been made clear that the shifting of the cargo was not responsible for the disaster and that the owners had been cleared of the charge that they knew of the desperate condition of the vessel before the SOS was sent.

He outlined constructive suggestions that had been made in regard to the adoption of better life preservers and that all underwater outlets in the sea be placed in vessels so that they be accessible at all times. One theory of the sinking of the Vestris is that inaccessible sanitary pipes in the coal bunkers burst and flooded the vessel.

Tuttle Criticises Inspection.

Tuttle criticised Steamboat Inspector Edward Keane for not having lowered the lifeboats of the Vestris when he inspected the vessel just prior to the sailing. The inspector had previously testified that it was impossible to lower the boats because of the presence of lighters alongside the vessel and also read a rule of the department of commerce which exempted foreign vessels from this provision of inspection. The federal attorney said the failure to lower the boats was inexcusable "unless the convenience of a few lighters is to take precedence over the protection of human life in an emergency."

Should Tramp Steamers Carry Radio?

Tuttle also put forward the question of whether tramp steamers should be required to carry radio equipment after Chief Mate George Harrison of the steamer Montoso testified that his ship was within six miles of the Vestris on November 11 and only 45 miles away when she sank yet knew nothing of the difficulties she was in.

Captain William H. Coombs, a representative of the Officers' Federations, an organization of 9,000 officers of the British Merchant Marine, defended before the investigators the memory of Captain Carey and the actions of other officers of the Vestris.

He said he had heard it said in England that public opinion here would demand a scapegoat and that he was glad to say Tuttle had assured him that was not the purpose of the federal investigation.

Santa Claus At Van Wagenen's

With Christmas but three weeks away Santa Claus has his toy storage warehouses filled and will now pause in his work to visit the various children and learn what is desired by the youngsters. Included in his schedule naturally will be Kingston, where it is anticipated he will arrive today and make his headquarters at the L. B. Van Wagenen store on Wall street. Santa Claus was scheduled to arrive in this city during the morning hours and after a brief tour of the city he will make his headquarters in the toyland basement of the Van Wagenen store. There Santa Claus will be pleased to meet the children of Kingston and learn from them what they desire from his stock of toys.

Santa Claus will meet and greet the children during the afternoon and evening at Van Wagenen's and to each child who is accompanied by his or her parents he will make a gift of candy.

All children are invited to visit the Van Wagenen store and have a personal interview with the jolly old fellow who will be pleased to take orders for delivery on Christmas morning. Those children who cannot come to the store should write to Santa Claus in care of the store and their wants will be taken care of as far as possible by Santa Claus.

No tickets will ever be sold at the door, and those wishing to join the association must do so during the week of December 3rd, when membership will be open to all who are interested.

Dr. Sigmund Spaeth of New York, national director of the community movement, has already made several visits to Kingston to help organize the local association, and will be represnted here next week by his assistant, Mrs. Louise Horton, a director of the New York State Federation of Music Clubs. # 11,500 Christmas Seals Sent Out

Over 11,500 Christmas Seals were turned over to the post office at Kingston, for the county-wide distribution which took place Friday.

That the people of Ulster county realize the importance of the work which the committee on tuberculosis are doing was made evident by their generosity last year.

The money obtained from the sale of seals will be used exclusively for tuberculosis work throughout the county. Specifically, it will provide for the service of a county tuberculosis nurse. It will enable the committee to hold tuberculosis clinics. It will provide milk and eggs for the indigent.

It will also be used to maintain a Summer Health Camp for undernourished children.

The committee feel confident that the people of Ulster county will again give their support and cooperation by buying the seals and thus having a share in this great work.

20,000 ENTRIES SUBMITTED FOR DURANT PRIZE

New York, Dec. 1 (AP).—Everything from tersely worded telegrams to carefully prepared documents, accompanied by charts and graphs, is included among the entries submitted for the $25,000 prize offered by W. C. Durant, motor manufacturer, for the "best and most practicable plan to make the Eighteenth amendment effective."

The contest, which was opened by Mr. Durant's offer last August, closed today. Next Tuesday the committee of judges, assisted by a corps of readers and secretaries, will begin the task of selecting the prize winning entry, whose author will receive $25,000 Christmas Day.

W. O. Heffernan, assistant to Mr. Durant, said today that anti-liquor education and more drastic means of enforcement were the predominating themes of the plans offered.

"The freak plans, some of which were submitted in a spirit of levity and others which are sincere, were the first to be received," Mr. Heffernan said. "The serious suggestions, many of them showing a great amount of thought and study, have made up the bulk of the later entries."

Entries have been received alike from persons who favor prohibition and those opposed to it, he said.

The committee designated to select the prize winner is composed of 15 nationally known persons, including Miss Jane Addams, Senator William E. Borah, the Rev. Dr. S. Parkes Cadman, William G. McAdoo and Rabbi Stephen S. Wise.

One Killed in Belgrade Rio

Belgrade, Jugo Slavia, Dec. 1 (AP).—One person was killed and a policeman seriously injured today during violent scenes at Zagreb during the celebration of the tenth anniversary of the union of the Serb, Croats and Slovenes.

While official representatives were proceeding to a church to celebrate the union, three huge Croat flags were displayed on the cathedral. Police forcibly entered the edifice and tore down the flags. This act was followed by violent scenes.

The people of Zagreb in general refused to celebrate the holiday because of the murder of Croatian leaders in the parliament at Belgrade last June. Papers there barely mentioned the fact that today was the tenth anniversary of the union.

In Belgrade, however, the streets were bedecked with flags and crowded with happy throngs celebrating the anniversary. Great processions of Sokols (athletic organizations), Scouts and other nationalist groups passed through the streets to attend a service of thanksgiving which was held in the cathedral.

All Belgrade papers published special editions giving the history of the union and an account of the progress made during the last ten years.

The D. & H. canal was part of the [illegible] system projected, planned and carried out successfully by Maurice Wurts, after whom Wurts street, Kingston, was named, who owned extensive coal lands in the vicinity of Carbondale, which property eventually came into the hands of the Delaware & Hudson Canal Company, a concern for which Wurts and his brother procured a charter to fully develop the coal lands and get the hard coal into the New York city market by means of cheap water transportation.

The canal was part of the Wurts transportation system and connected at Honesdale with the company's gravity road that extended across the Moosic Mountains to the mines at Carbondale. From a newspaper correspondent at Wurtsboro, writing under the date of December 5, 1828, some facts of the early canal are available. He told of the first six canal boats, capacity laden with coal, arriving at Wurtsboro. They were greeted with the "firing of cannon, cheers and offering of toasts, among which were toasts to Philip Hone, first president of the company, and after whom Honesdale was named, and to Maurice Wurts the projector."

Originally the canal, which was 108 miles in length, was thirty-two to thirty-six feet wide, with locks seventy-six feet long, and the canal could accommodate boats carrying from twenty-five to thirty tons. The canal was abandoned about twenty-eight years ago. Most of the old canal bed has been filled in. There is little evidence today of what was once a thriving industry.

The new pact is said to have eliminated problems that have caused many petty disputes heretofore. Such things as coal for use at the miner's home and house rents are left to the individual miner and the mine management for settlement.

Wages for inside labor range from $5.18 to $6.10 a day, while outside day labor varies from $5.10 to $5.42.

Yellow Jackets Play West Point Service Sunday

Strong Soldier Eleven Determined to Score a Win Over Local Gridders—Record Crowd Expected to Turn Out For Struggle.

The West Point Service Club football team is coming to Kingston Sunday with the firm purpose of hanging a defeat on the hard fighting Yellow Jackets, who took the measure of Uncle Sam's soldiers at the local gridiron several weeks ago. The Kingston representatives are confident that they will be able to hold to their superiority over the West Pointers.

West Point will not start their second string men against the Yellow Jackets as they did in the last meeting. Every regular will take his place as Referee Oleson blows the whistle to open the football war and will fight to the end. Captain Joe McGrath and all his first stringers, who stayed out of the contest for nearly a half a game in the battle that the Yellow Jackets took from the soldiers, will start the game which means that the Kingston team will have to show some real football.

The Yellow Jackets are set to put forth the best grid war of the season. Coach Preston has his men set for the contest and every one is tuned to the finest degree. The locals have their plans of attack all set and hope to keep hold of the pigskin most of the time.

Of course the game will start at the usual time, 3 o'clock. The gates of the Fair Grounds will be open early for those who care for choice seats and according to the enthusiasm being shown over the game fans who like a close-up view of football games will have to be prompt in their arrival. It is expected that a record attendance will witness the Sunday game.

Port Jervis Team Wins DUSO Title

After defeatinng Poughkeepsie, Newburgh and Kingston, the Port Jervis High School eleven was held to a scoreless tie by Middletown at the latter's gridiron Thanksgiving Day. The Port team won the DUSO League championship.

The Port Jervis team this season was fast and powerful. Cuddeback, the Port Jervis sturdy fullback, was a good line plunger and kicker and it was his playing that did most of the damage when the Port team played Kingston. The Maroon and White eleven came in last in the DUSO League this season.

The final DUSO League standing is as follows:

| Team. | Won. | Lost. | Tie. |
|---|---|---|---|
| Port Jervis | 3 | 0 | 1 |
| Middletown | 1 | 0 | 3 |
| Newburgh | 2 | 1 | 1 |
| Poughkeepsie | 1 | 3 | 0 |
| Kingston | 0 | 3 | 1 |

All-American Football Slants

By Alan J. Gould,
Associated Press Sports Editor.

New York, Dec. 1 (AP).—The experts who have become a little dizzy trying to pick football winners this season haven't any relief in sight as they examine the all-American dope.

Not that there is any shortage of stars. There are more backfield aces in the deck than in any year since 1925 when even Red Grange didn't get into the charmed group along with Oberlander, Nevers and Wilson, without a stiff argument.

The east alone has enough backs to make a fair all-American quartet. Harpster of Carnegie, Cagle of the Army, Strong of New York University, and Scull of Pennsylvania, are just about as capable a collection as any one section has to offer.

But glance at the south, with Crabtree of Florida, Mizell of Georgia Tech, Peake of Virginia Poly and Armistead of Vanderbilt, or Banker of Tulane. And these are only five outstanding players in an exceptional crop.

Even if the mid-west lacks a Grange or Friedman to toss into the argument this year, there's a sensation a little farther on in Dutch Clark of Colorado College, while Chuck Carroll of Washington has won the unanimous acclaim of Pacific coast critics for his brilliance. The east will endorse any testimonial for Howard Maple, who led Oregon State to victory over New York University with a neatness and dispatch that even Harpster of Carnegie could not accomplish.

If it's triple threats that are desired, Scull, Strong, Mizell, Clark and Carroll can fill the bill, besides backing up the line. Scull is an artist in the rare science of dropkicking.

If it's fancy passing and broken field running, Cagle will do. The Army ace does everything but loop-the-loop through opposing defenses.

If it's concentrated ground-gaining, take Dutch Clark, this busy young man, running wild for Colorado College, averaged a fraction more than ten yards—or a first down—for every time he handled the ball in seven games. On his best afternoon, against Wyoming, he doubled this average with gains of 374 yards in 19 plays.

Picking out the line stars is as difficult as it looks. Star ends have been lacking, with a few exceptions, like Frankain of St. Mary's, Fesler, of Ohio State, Brown, of Missouri, Van Sickel, of Florida, Mesinger, of Army, Phillips, of California, Rosenzweig, of Carnegie, and Tappaan and McCaslin, of Southern California.

Powerful line units, such as those of Georgia Tech, Pittsburgh and Illinois, have their stars, but the main factor of success has been their general and co-ordinate strength.

The south has been rich in good centers, with stalwarts like Peter Pund, Georgia Tech captain; Harry Schwartz, North Carolina, and O. K. Pressley of Clemson. But there's also Captain Howe of Princeton, Barragh of Southern California, and Stadelman of Oregon.

Here and there powerful combinations have stood out, like Post and Robesky, the Stanford guards, or the giant Nebraska trio of Holm and McMullen, guards, with James at center.

It's one thing to star with the aid of a fine supporting cast on a championship contender; another to stand out where the going has not been so good.

Team adversities have helped to light the beacons for players like Ned Burke, Navy captain and guard; Otton Pommerening, Michigan's great tackle; Choc Sanders, Southern Methodist guard; Carroll of Washington and Banker of Tulane.

Pommerening, weighing only 178 but unusually fast and rugged for his poundage, played every game from start to finish. In the final contest against Iowa, as Michigan salvaged one of its few victories from the wreckage, eight of the nine plays in the 63-yard march to the winning touchdown were driven through Pommerening's position. That's a pretty fair All-American test.

New York Sun Names All-American Eleven

New York, Dec. 1 (AP).—Out of a list of 278 selected players from every part of the country the New York Sun today named its all-American eleven, an eleven of alternates and a list of 75 players for honorable mention.

As is the newspaper's custom, watches are awarded to members of the first team, silver medals to the alternates and this year the honorable mention men received bronze medals.

The Big Ten gets two places on the first team, the Pacific coast gets three, the south and Texas one each, and four go to the east.

The first and alternate selections follow:

| First Team | Position | Second Team |
|---|---|---|

Grade School League Results

School No. 4 beat School No. 2, 14 to 9 and School No. 3 blanked St. Mary's 16-0, in the Grade School League games played at the Y. M. C. A. court Friday afternoon. The first tilt between Schools No. 4 and No. 2 was a hard fought battle and at no time did No. 4 hold the score by a safe margin throughout the second half. School No. 3 held St. Mary's to a scoreless game, something which has not been done to any of the parochial school teams in past years.

The first half of the game between No. 4 and No. 2 was anything but a big scoring period for the tally was 4 all at half time. In the second period No. 4 took the lead and held it throughout the rest of the contest but at no time did they hold it by a safe margin. In the last few minutes No. 4 rolled up the points which left their opponents five marks behind when the final whistle blew, 14-9.

For the past few years the St. Mary's basketball teams have not been living up to the reputation established by the basketball tams of previous years. The St. Mary's teams for two years in succession won the championship of the Hudson Valley and now a team from the same school gets trounced 16-0. At the half the score was 6-0 and in the second period St. Mary's defense fell completely to pieces which allowed No. 3 to add 10 more points to her score and when the final whistle sounded the score was 16-0.

Y'S MEN SCORE OVER COMFORTER QUINTET

Holding the lead throughout all the periods of the game the Y's Men defeated the Comforters 40 to 36 at the Y. M. C. A. court Friday night. It was the closest game that any team has given the Y's Men this season.

The "Y" representatives scored heavily in the first quarter and got a substantial lead on the Comforters. In the second session however, the Comforters did some good guarding and held their opponents to few tallies while they caged the leather for enough points to bring them within two markers of the Y's Men's lead at the termination of the first half. The score was then 25-23.

At no time in the second half did the Y's Men get over a 6 point lead on their opponents. In the last quarter both teams broke even in scoring and when the game was called the score was 40 to 36 in favor of the Y's Men.

Glenna Collett Again Winner

IN WINNING her ninth women's national championship, Glenna Collett equaled a record held by four other women. Miss Beatrice Hurit won in 1896, 1897, and 1900; Miss Margaret Curtis won in 1906, 1907 and 1911; Mrs. Dorothy Campbell Hurd won in 1909, 1910 and 1914; Mrs. Alexa Stirling Fraser in 1916, 1919 and 1920; and Miss Collett in 1922, 1924 and 1928. The story of Glenna's golf is much like that of practically every top-notch youngster. Not even the most ardent admirers, many of whom started as such as she was eleven years old and over before her put her under the instruction of a professional, John Anderson, Leonard Eyles and later Alex Smith gave her instructions, and although showing no more promise than many other young girls, she came along to be the greatest.

She is a natural athlete. She is an excellent swimmer, and in her younger days played an excellent game of tennis. She occasionally has experimented with the other girls with the pocket billiard table and showed remarkable ability for a novice.

In the ten national championships in which she has competed, she has been medalist twice and tied for the medal once, winning the playoff. She has never failed to qualify. Three times she has won, lost once in the semifinals, twice in the third round, twice in the second round and twice in the first round.

She entered her first national championship in 1919, the first one held after the two year gap due to the war, and qualified with 93, losing in the second round to Mrs. F. E. Debois. She was sixteen then. The next year she qualified with 91 and lost to Elaine Rosenthal in the first round. She tied for medalist with 85 in 1921, losing in the first round to Miss Edith Leitch of England, but won the medal from Mrs. Latham Hall, 92 to 93.

Glenna Collett.

In 1922 she was medalist with 81 and went on to win the championship at the Greenbrier club at White Sulphur Springs. Her closest match was in the semifinals, in which she won from Edith Cummings, 2 up.

What Caused Stallings' Illness Last Summer?

When George Stallings was stricken early in the summer and in a serious condition with heart disorder, he was taken from Toronto to Macon, which is near his plantation at Haddock, Ga. His son, Vernon, wife and a doctor went with him. He was gazing fixedly out of a pullman window, the doctor in the seat with him.

"Mr. Stallings," asked the physician, "to what do you attribute your illness; your heart attack?"

The miracle man turned from his absorbed gaze at the panoramic outdoors, and faced the doctor. And, without hesitation, he snapped:

"To a base on balls"

Costly Rookie

Roy Johnson, outfielder sold for $75,000 to the Detroit Tigers by the San Francisco Seals, is regarded as one of the best players ever developed in the Pacific Coast league. Johnson made 52 doubles, 16 triples and 22 home runs in compiling a .359 batting average this year.

John Hay Whitney Buys Grand National Entry

Barring accidents, the popular colors of the Greentree stable, owned by Mrs. Payne Whitney, will be seen in the Liverpool Grand National steeplechase, the most famous jumping race in the world, next March in England.

John Hay Whitney has purchased Easter Hero, one of the best jumpers in England, with the Grand National in view.

This horse was one of the fancied ones for the big jumping race at Aintree last March when Billy Barton, the American-owned horse, finished second to Tipperary Tim after falling at the last hedge, but being remounted. In that race only two horses of thirty odd starters finished the stiff course.

St. Louis Cards Declare 20 Per Cent Dividend

A dividend of 20 per cent has been declared by stockholders of the St. Louis Cardinal baseball club. Sam Breadon, president, will receive approximately $30,000 of the $50,800 to be distributed.

This is the third dividend declared by the present Cardinal organization since its inception in 1917, and the largest to date. Dividends have been curtailed by heavy investments in minor league clubs to develop players. The 1928 dividend is twice that paid after the pennant and world championship victories of 1926.

McLarnin Loses To Ray Miller

Detroit, Dec. 1 (AP)—Ray Miller, blonde haired 22-year-old Chicago youth, today is brewing poison for Sammy Mandell, world's lightweight champion.

Miller, heretofore regarded as an in and outer in the boxing business, became the foremost contender for Mandell's title owing to his smashing victory over Jimmy McLarnin, the baby faced puncher from Los Angeles, in their battle in the Olympia arena last night. Miller, a 5 to 1 shot in the betting, scored a surprising triumph when he stopped McLarnin, acknowledged king of lightweight sluggers, in the seventh round of their ten-round match.

The victory goes into the record books as a technical knockout for Miller. McLarnin, bleeding from an ugly gash under his right eye, his face a smear of blood, sat in his corner hopelessly beaten and unable to respond to the bell for the start of the eighth round. His handlers, realizing another punch might find him stretched unconscious on the floor of the ring, humanely tossed a towel inside the ropes, indicating defeat. It was the first knockout ever registered against McLarnin.

Miller, conceding 5½ pounds, really defeated McLarnin in the first round, although the contest did not end until six rounds later. In the first exchange of blows, Miller smashed McLarnin with a vicious left hook. The blow caught the coast boxer on the right side of the face, opening a gash and breaking a small blood vessel under his right eye.

After that McLarnin never was himself, although he managed to win the fourth and fifth rounds. His handlers tried repeatedly to close the gash, but they never were more than partly successful and McLarnin could not overcome the handicap caused by the stream of blood that blotted his vision.

Miller won five of the seven rounds, subjecting McLarnin to an unmerciful beating. McLarnin weighed 137½ pounds and Miller 133.

Chief Halbran To Meet Konchina

Two Hard Miners Slated for Feature Tilt, December 10—Hines and Carpino of Kingston and Nardone of Highland To Fight.

Chief Halbran of the 182nd Mexican Regiment, who appeared at the armory some time ago, will be the opponent of Frankie Konchina in the feature attraction at the armory on Monday night, December 10, when a card of National Guard bouts will be staged.

In bringing Frankie Konchina back to Kingston after he has been doing his turn in New York rings for some time, Matchmaker Jimmy Ambrose feels that Kingston will be pleased for Konchina is a man that always puts his best into the game. He will have to fight at top-notch speed to cope successfully with Chief Halbran, who is reputed to have a sock equally as good as Frankie's.

Nick Zinna, Kingston pugilist, who recently beat Joe Daley, classed as the Hudson valley's cleverest boxer in the local armory and only the other night took the measure of Bud Carasta in New York city, will take to the arena with Teddy Anderson of New York in the six round semi-final.

Johnny Carpino, rated as one of the hardest hitters in Kingston, will make his debut in the National Guard ring against Curtis Davis, one of the hardest men Jimmy Ambrose could find for the local lad. Davis is the "bad boy" who dropped Joe Starr of West Point for the count at the last fistic entertainment held in the armory.

Ambrose did not forget to get some little men on the card, just the variety of scrappers who make a show lively. He picked Tommy Aboba to display his well known wares against Ivan Hawes, the miniature colored boy with a dynamic wallop. These Guardsmen are slated for six rounds, but it is believed the session will end before the scheduled time. Aboba, the little Filipino flash, is well known in Kingston as he fought several times in this city last year. Hawes is the boy who went six rounds to a draw with Ray Halverson of Newburgh at the last armory show.

Gene Painter of West Point will do his stuff against "Mule" Brown, one of the hardest hitters in the National Guard. He is a black man with the reputation of having met some of the best fighters in the Guard.

Harry Nardone of Highland, who is a member of the First Battalion, 156th Field Artillery, is matched with Stanley Reid of Newburgh for the curtain raiser of four rounds. Nardone's appearance will be his first as a National Guard pugilist, while Reid is known as a master of the game. The Highland fighter will have to be in good shape to make an impression as a soldier scrapper.

Local Boxers on Newburgh Card

Roy Van Buren and Joe Myers of this city have been signed through the efforts of Manager Eugene Conway to fight on the Newburgh card of Friday, December 7. Both Kingston boys are working hard for their fistic encounters and will be in good shape for Friday night.

Van Buren, who is training with greater interest than ever before, is slated to meet Ray Halverson, who knocked out Charlie Molvin some time ago at Newburgh. Van Buren is being trained by Sergeant James M. McCabe of the local National Guard gym, who expects Roy to make a remarkable comeback after a prolonged layoff. In Halverson the Kingstonion will find a hard opponent with a good kick to his punches.

Joe Myers will do battle against Kid McNorton of Newburgh, who has a rating in the Hilly City not to be looked down upon. The Kingston boy will do all in his power to take McNorton for he is contemplating a future bout in Kingston.

The Week in Wall Street

Favorable Reports and Split-ups Help to Create Bullish Enthusiasm But Disturbing Factors Also Appear—Financial and Brokerage Circles Advise Caution.

New York, Dec. 1 (AP).—The stock market went through a series of contrasting movements this week but the bull forces which have been in the saddle and riding hard since election day continued in control.

A series of favorable dividend and stock split up announcements, including the cutting of a $60,000,000 melon by the National City Bank, checking of the seasonal decline in steel production and the publication of a long string of excellent October railroad earnings statements helped to create bullish enthusiasm.

The week also brought a series of disquieting developments. These included a rise in call money rates to 10 per cent for the third time this year; the loss of $24,000,000 in gold, bringing the monetary stocks of the nation down $485,000,000 below the high level of May, 1927, and another increase of $132,000,000 in Federal Reserve brokers' loans.

Another disturbing factor was the wideloper break in Canadian Marconi stock on the New York Curb Market Friday. It was the drastic decline in Bancitaly stock on the curb that started the disastrous break in stock prices last June.

Cautionary Advices Increase.

The violence of the recent speculation in stocks has caused widespread uneasiness in financial and brokerage circles as evident by the increasing number of cautionary advices by leading commission houses and the stiffening of margin requirements by both bankers and brokers.

Thus far the market has been able to absorb an unusually heavy volume of liquidation with little difficulty, and fresh buying power invariably has been supplied on all breaks. The violent advances in many of the high-priced issues has been due, largely, to the relatively small floating supply of those stocks and the disinclination of large holders to take profits, either because of taxes or their inability to find other satisfactory sources of investment.

Elimination of small sales volume from the tape has aided materially in keeping traders better informed as to the trend of prices on the floor, and has reduced the number of complaints. Many brokers are still unable, however, to obtain prompt reports of orders executed on the floor because so many of the specialties are over-worked.

Rails and Utilities Come Forward.

Railroad and public utility shares came to the fore again this week. Rails responded to the October earnings reports, and to unconfirmed rumors of higher dividends. Public utilities also rallied on reports of expanding earnings and a revival of merger gossip.

Steel shares did little all week. Buying of the motors was selective in character, with Packard, Nash, Hupp, Mack Trucks and Yellow Truck in the forefront of the advance, although the last named turned heavy on Friday on a denial of reports that it would take over the General Motors truck business.

Oils changed hands in large volume at advancing prices. Purchase of the Rockefeller trust holdings in Prairie Oil and Prairie Pipe Line by Blair & Co. is expected in Wall Street to be followed by a later merger of those properties with Sinclair.

Montgomery-Ward and Sears Roebuck again soared to new highs. Radio touched 500 for the first time this week. Rubber shares presented new points of strength but the textiles and packing issues were again backward.

COLONIAL STOCK YET DOMINATES IN SENATE

Cold Spring Harbor, N. Y. (AP).—The colonial racial stock which predominated in the Constitutional convention of 1787 is still the dominating stock of the United States senate, through in decreasing degree.

The data were gathered by the eugenics record office here of the Carnegie Institution and given out by Frank L. Babbott of Brooklyn. It covers the status in 1927.

"We find," says Mr. Babbott, "that the English, Scotch and Irish compose 90 per cent of the delegates to the Constitutional convention and 31 per cent of the members of the United States senate. In getting these data it was, fortunately, possible to find the racial descent of each of the 96 members of the senate.

"The statistics were made by inquiring into the racial descent of each of the four grandparents of the 96 senators, thus going a step further back than was the case with the members of the Constitutional Convention."

The percentages in the Constitutional Convention and the senate were respectively:

| | | |
|---|---|---|
| English | 62.63 | and 47.65 |
| Irish | 17.27 | and 14.45 |
| Scotch | 9.09 | and 19.53 |
| French | 4.55 | and 5.21 |
| Dutch | 2.73 | and .52 |
| Swedish | 1.59 | and 2.05 |
| Welsh | .91 | and 2.85 |

The senate in addition showed five blood classifications not in the Constitutional Convention, which were:

| | |
|---|---|
| German | 5.60 |
| Norwegian | 1.56 |
| Swiss | .26 |
| Danish | .13 |
| American Indian | .13 |

OUR DAILY PATTERN.

6307

A Simple Daytime Dress.

6307. In this simple but effective style, the right front crosses over the left above a pleated section, and forms a small V neck opening and diagonal closing. The back is in one piece. The fitted sleeve is in keeping with the trim lines of this chic design. As pictured, black satin was employed to make this dress. It lends itself well also to velvet, crepe and woolen materials in jersey, georgette or rep.

The pattern is cut in 3 sizes: 16, 18 and 20 years. To make the dress for a 16 year size will require 2¼ yards of 54 inch material. For facing of contrasting material on the belt, ⅛ yard 39 inches wide is required.

A pattern of this illustration mailed to any address on receipt of 12c in coin or stamps by the Pattern Department, The Freeman, Kingston, N. Y. Be sure to state the size wanted.

Miss Manville Weds Count Today

Ceremony It Is Estimated Will Cost Three-Quarters of a Million Dollars—Promises To Be One of the Most Brilliant of New York's Social Season.

Pleasantville, N. Y., Dec. 1 (AP).—Estelle Romaine Manville, daughter of an American industrial king, and Count Folke Bernadotte, nephew of the King of Sweden, will be married late today at a ceremony which it is estimated will cost three-quarters of a million dollars.

International interest is focused on the wedding, which promises to be one of the most brilliant of the New York social season. Invited guests include the majority of those socially prominent in New York, members of the Swedish royal family, and the aristocracy of Europe. It will be the first time a member of a royal family will have been married on United States soil.

Due to the small size of St. John's Episcopal Church, where the ceremony will be performed, wedding guests will number only about 250, but the guest list for the reception at Hi-Esmaro, the Manville country estate, included 1,000 names.

After the wedding the bride and groom will tour the United States, which the groom has not seen extensively. They will make their home in Stockholm.

Briday Veil Was Worn by Queen.

An army of florists, musicians and caterers have long been preparing for the event; the little country church has been redecorated and an elaborate Paris trousseau provided for the bride. Her bridal veil will be of Brussels lace, which was worn by Count Bernadotte's grandmother, the late Queen Sophia of Sweden, at her wedding. The veil will be held by a coronet of silver and precious stones.

Three ministers are to officiate. The Right Reverend Ernest M. Stires, Protestant Episcopal Bishop of Long Island, will perform the ceremony, assisted by the Rev. Emmons P. Burrill, rector of St. John's Church, and the Rev. John N. Lewis, Jr., of Waterbury, Conn. Soderman's Swedish wedding march and Wagner's and Mendelssohn's wedding marches will be played by Archer Gibson, private organist to Mr. Manville.

Groom in Nephew of King.

Count Folke Bernadotte is the youngest son of Prince Oscar Bernadotte, second brother of King Gustav V. of Sweden. He is a descendant of Napoleon's marshal, Bernadotte, who the Corsican raised to the throne of Sweden in the Nineteenth century. The young count is a lieutenant in the Royal Swedish Horse Guards, and an enthusiastic horseman.

Miss Manville, who is the daughter of H. E. Manville, chairman of the board of Johns-Manville, Inc., made here debut a few years ago in New York. She is a descendant of Jeoffrey De Magnavil, an adherent of William the Conqueror.

Members of the Swedish Royal Party arrived in New York November 26 to attend the wedding, and during the past week have been guests of honor at a series of entertainments. They include H. R. H. Prince Gustavus Adolphus, eldest son of the Crown Prince of Sweden, who will serve as Count Bernadotte's best man; Count Carl Bernadotte, the groom's brother; Count Carl Bonde, master of the king's horse, and his wife, Countess Ebba Bonde; Countess Elsa Bernadotte, sister of the groom; Count Nils Wachmesiter and others.

More Mortgages, Less Deeds Filed

During the month of November past there were filed for record at the office of the Ulster county clerk deeds, rights of way and other papers pertaining to transfers of realty to the number of 207. This is 56 less than in November, 1927, when the total was 263. There were also more mortgages filed for record during November, 1927, when the total was 280 against 228 filed during November this year.

FORMER KINGSTONIAN IN ANTI-SMITH PARTY.

Simon D. Snyder of Atlanta, Georgia, formerly of Kingston, is prominently mentioned in a despatch from Atlanta published recently in southern newspapers regarding an elaborate banquet given on Tuesday evening, November 20, at the Chamber of Commerce cafe at Atlanta by members and friends of the Anti-Smith Democratic Party of Georgia in honor of their outstanding leaders in the state.

Mr. Snyder was secretary of the committee in charge of arrangements for the banquet, and was also one of the banquet speakers.

The honor guests were the Hon. Hooper Alexander, Mrs. Marvin Williams, Judge W. A. Covington, Mrs. Carl F. Hutcheson, Hon. Barry Wright, Mrs. Mary Harris Armor and Dr. A. J. Barton. Mr. Wright was unable to be there on account of illness and Mrs. Armor was prevented from attending due to the National W. C. T. U. Convention in Boston.

The guests included a number of Georgia newspaper and magazine editors, doctors and other professional men and men and women who headed county organizations of the Anti-Smith Democratic Party. Telegrams were read from various prominent Southerners and also a letter from President-elect Herbert Hoover.

Mr. Snyder is a son of Charles A. Snyder of No. 87 Washington avenue, this city.

CHANDLERS READY FOR HARD GAME TONIGHT AT "Y".

The Chandlers are out to do their best against the Springfield Y. M. C. A. team at the local "Y" tonight. In the contest, which is slated for 8 o'clock, the automobile team will face a quintet of Massachusetts courtsters, who have a fine reputation.

It is expected that a large number of spectators will witness the tilt. All who wish front row seats are advised to be at the Y. M. C. A. early this evening. There will be a preliminary game to interest those who arrive early.
